The Game Played in Egypt Will Not Work in Nicaragua.

MONROE DOCTRINE GOVERNS

The Administration Said to Be Deter-Mined to Maintain the National Policy.

contention with Great Britain growing out of the Nicaraguan trouble seems unavoid-able. How serious it will become depends on the action of Great Britain. The policy of this Government, it is understood, has been decided upon and soon will be made very clear to the English Government, if this has not already been done. The Administration is thoroughly resolved to uphold the Monroe doctrine in this case from the very start. It recognizes the necessity of making its contention known in no uncer-very start. It recognizes the necessity of making its contention known in no uncertain language.

Great Britain has demanded a cash indemnity of $75,000 for the banishment of its Consular Agent, Hatch, during the recent trouble over the Mosquito Strip. That Government has stated that that indemnity must be paid within seven weeks from Feb. 25, the date of the ultimatum.

It has also been demanded that a commission be appointed to adjudicate the damages sustained by the persons and property of British subjects who were expelled from the Mosquito reservation about the same time. Great Britain expressed her willingness to name one of the commissioners and to have Nicaragua to name another, and to allow these two to choose the third, but it has been reported that she expressly directed that the third should not be a citizen of the United States.

It was on the prompt payment of the $75,000 indemnity for the Consul's banishment that England insisted more strongly, and in promulgating her ultimatum she made it known that a British warship was on its way to Nicaragua to enforce her demands. This action made it necessary for the United States to declare its purpose also.

The Post-Dispatch correspondent is informed that the President and the Cabinet have decided to insist upon an understanding with Great Britain. It is pointed out that Nicaragua is poor, and with the low state of its credit, it will find it very difficult to raise $75,000 upon short notice. Great Britain, it is said, through Sir Julian Pauncefote, has, in response to inquiries, assured this Government that England has no desire to acquire the territory in Nicaragua, and asserts that it is not her purpose to do so. She does, however, intend to compel Nicaragua to pay the $75,000 smart money.

The only way in which Great Britain can collect the indemnity, if she does not seize territory in lieu of it, is to take control of the Custom-house of Nicaragua, and pay herself out of the duties usually collected by the government. It is this that the United States has decided shall not be done, and it is here that the trouble may arise between the United States and the government of Great Britain, if the latter government attempts to thus secure the $75,000 smart money.

government attempts to thus secure the co., 00 smart money.

It is said that it will be urged upon Great Britain that Nicaragua be given time to raise the indemnity and be allowed to pay it herself. Bonds, it is said, that will be per-fectly satisfactory, can be given, and this government believes with such an arrange-ment Great Britain ought to be content. The amount can thus be easily paid, and no friction will result from the affair, but it will be intimated very strongly that if harsher measures are resorted to, this it will be intimated very strongly that if harsher measures are resorted to, this country cannot be indifferent.

The administration, in taking this stand, will refer to the Clayton-Bulwer treaty of 1850. When the government of the United States and Great Britain agreed that they would "never occupy, fortify or colonize, or assume or exercise any dominion over Nicaragua, Costa Rica, the Mosquito Coast, or any part of Central America."

In taking this decided step to put into effect the Monroe doctrine the Administration recognizes what the seizure of the customs of Nicaragua by Great Britain would mean. It has in mind the history of England in Egypt, and does not propose that Nicaragua shall be entered through the custom-house and then become a part of Great Britain's possessions, as is Egypt today.

To prevent a repetition of the history of Great Britain's possessions, as is Egypt today.

To prevent a repetition of the history of Egypt in Nicaragua it is asserted that British denials of a desire to acquire territory will be accepted as true so long as she keeps out of the Nicaraguan custom-houses.
It is therefore asserted that the United States in this question will notify Great Britain, if that country refuses to give Nicaragua time to raise the indemnity, that any attempt to selze the customs from the small republic will be opposed by the United small republic will be opposed by the United States.

Similar action may be taken in the case of Guatemala, when England undertakes to collect the bonds issued by that country. A large amount of these securities is held in England, and Sir Edward Gray, in answer to a question in Parliament the other day, replied that England would collect the money on those bonds if she had to do it by force.

THE BLUEFIELDS INCIDENT.
The "Mosquito Reserve" is a strip of country about 150 miles long and from 40 to 50 miles wide, embracing about 7,000 aguare miles along the coast of Nicaragua. The chief town and port is Bluefields, which, in consequence of the development of the banana trade and the establishment of regular lines of steamers to New York and New Orleans, is becoming a place of considerable commerce and political importance. For many years Great Britain maintained a proteotorate over the territory. Under the treaty of Managua, signed in 1880, Great Britain relinquished all claims whatever to the Mosquito Coast and recognized the sovereignty of Nicaragua over it. It was provided by the treaty that they should be required to acknowledge allegiance to the Republic of Nicaragua and bear a similar relation to it that one of the tunited States. The Indians were forbidden to sell or otherwise convey say of their land to forcigners. They were pormitted to to sel or otherwise convey any of their land to forcigners. Gen. Cabeza to Bluefields at midnight on Feb. 12. Gen. Cabeza took possession of Bluefields. The day following this Gen. Cabeza issued a manifesto denouncing the Mosquito chief and the members of his Executive Council as rebels, and stating that the Government of Mosquito had ceased to exist. The manifesto placed Bluefields under martial law. On the morning of that day, the 18th, the Nicaraguan fiagwas hoisted, thereby displacing the flag was hoisted, thereby displacing the flag was hoisted, thereby displacing the flag was in lotted, thereby displacing the flag was in content of the treaty.

It was during the subsequent troubles that British Consular Agent Hatch was arrested and imprisoned, forming the basis of England's claim for the payment of an indemnity of $75,000. For a time Bluefields was in possession of British and American sailors landed from the ships sent there to protect the interests of the citizens of the United States and subjects of England resident there. Nicaragua finally banished the Mosquito ruler, Chief Clarence, and established formal control over the territory, which it continues to maintain.

England's Position.

LONDON, March 22.—The following semiofficial statement regarding the trouble between Great Britain and Nicaragua is published here: Gen. Barrios, the Nicaraguan envoy, left London when the British demands were made for compensation in the sum of fib,000 for the expulsion of Mr.
Hatch, the British Consular Agent from Bluefields, and also for the appointment of a commission to adjudicate the damages sustained by the persons and property of British subjects expelled from the Mosquito reservation. The statement that Great Britain stipulated that no citizen of the United States should be a member of the commission is inaccurate. It is the opinion of diplomatic circles here that the demands of Great Britain are exceptionally small.

EMPEROR WILLIAM'S DECREE.

sion Proposal. BERLIN, March 22,-The Reichs Anzeiger this morning, upon the occasion of the anniversary of the birth of Emperor William I., publishes a decree addressed by the present Emperor William to the Chancellor of the German Empire. The Emperor says: "Within a short time a quarter of a century will have passed since the events which stand out in the history of the world, which under the glorious reign of my grandfather, thanks to the unanimous co-operation of the German sovereigns and people, led to the re-establishment of the Empire. On this day, sacred to the memory of Emperor William I., I feel with especial keenness the necessity of making some provision, as he would have wished, for the men who, obeying the summons of their commanders and rejoicing in the sacrifice, staked life and health for the fatherland. I would, therefore, regard it with greater satisfaction if the officers, surgeons, officials and men of the army and the navy, who in consequence of wounds received in 1870 and 1871, or in consequence of their injuries sustained, during the time of service forfeited their claim to the second year's active service in the calculations of their pensions, could henceforth have the difference thus caused made up to them. It would also give me satisfaction if the non-commissioned officers and men who took an honorable part in the campaigns of 1870 and 1871, or in the wars waged by the German States before 1870, and who are needy, could be granted assistance in the future. I do not lose sight of the fact that the circumstances admit the claims of only a small number of men, and that those only are considered. But it is my earnest wish that the gratitude of the Fatherland should at least be manifested towards those who are in a position of indigence."

The decree then charges Prince Hohenlohe to submit the proposal and to carry out the details. Emperor William to the Chancellor of the Pierce, mansger and chief owner of the Petaluma Electric Light and Power Co., and President of the Pierce Telephone Co. and of the California Dairymen's Union, and one of the most waithy and prominent citizens of this place, was instantly killed by contact with one of the wires last night. An assistant, looking for broken wires, had received a shock while on a pole and he rapidly descended. Pierce climbed the pole heedless of the assistant's warning. On reaching the first cross piece, about forty feet from the ground, he sat on it, with his legs astride of the bid post. He finally touched one from which the insulation had been hurned. A sheet of flame shot forth and Pierce without a sound dropped backward. His body was still on the cross piece and he hung with head, hands and feet downward, two heavy whrea keeping him from failing. A hook and ladder truck was utilised in taking down the body, which had been on the pole for about fifteen minutes. The blackened remains were carried into an adjoining hotel, but resuscitation was impossible.

The independent breweries that have been trying for more than six months to organize a syndicate of their own, similar to those which control the English breweries in this city and Milwaukee, have abandoned the task and adjourned without fixing a day for any future meeting. It was understood when the meeting broke up that the pool arrangement had failed completely and further efforts will be made to organize the independent brewers. This, of course, means that the war of prices will go on, and it is not likely to end until the brewers have lost so much money that they will be compelled as a matter of self-preservation to quit fighting among themselves. This will be glad tidings to the saloonkeeper, for it means that he will get beer this summer at from $4$ to $3$ per barrel.

Just what caused the break up none of the brewers would say, but it is understood that they failed to agree on a number of points, the most essential of which was the capitalization and percentage of sales to be allowed various firms.

Henry Bigelow of Boston, who undertook the difficult task of consolidating the independent breweries, said last night that he had no reason now for supposing that a combine would be formed this season. Aside from his interest in getting the independents together, Mr. Bigelow was anxious to effect the agreement to increase the earnings of the two big English syndicates, he having been largely instrumental in putting through those deals. The English breweries in common with all others in Chicago, have suffered immense losses by reason of the competition which has carried prices down far below the point at which breweries can sell beer at a profit.

father is a philosopher and takes the sex of the baby as a part of the Lord's scheme of creation.

Ever since the baby came Cronin has been in a terrible state of excitement. His place of business at Twelfth and Walnut streets has been crowded with enthusiastic friends, with the result that the Alderman has not had much sleep. At noon to-day when a reporter called at his house he was still in bed, sleeping and snoring like a winded porpoise.

"Wake up, Jim," said the reporter, shaking his prostrate figure.

"Hello," he groaned, turning over and opening his eyes. "Oh," he went on, as the thought of the development in his affairs came to him, "I'm awful happy to-day. Mamma, bring out the baby."

And the elder Mrs. Cronin, to whom this remark was addressed, brought forth the blooming youngster, and the big father grinned in pride and commented sagely on its fine points.

"If it had only been a boy," he said, "I'd have had him registered to-day. I had everything fixed, but then we've got to have girls. This settles the election, though, Mundt won't be in it. Every daddy in the ward will vote for me now."

"You must have passed that fender bill in anticipation of this?"

"Yes, we fathers must look out for our children," remarked the Alderman, visibly swelling, and he buried his head in the bed clothes as he thought of his added dignity.

MUTE CUPID'S WICKED PRANKS.

Love Needs Not a Spoken Language to Do Mischief.

HOME SILENTLY DESPOILED.

Tragic |But Voiceless Denouement of an Elopement in Which the Little God Went Wrong.

If Cupid ever accomplished a greater feat than one which resulted in a highly drathan one which resulted in an upper matic scene in pantomime in an upper room of 2611 Rauschenbach avenue Friday morning, his chroniclers have not recorded it. The little gentleman surmounted apparently insuperable obstacles, manufactured a love code of his own which scoffed at such commonplace instruments as words for their transference, and then sulked in a corner and wept to see his achievements brought to naught by the law.

The actors in the little love god's latest mischief, which began at Jacksonville, Ill., centered at Springfield in a bigamous marriage Thursday, and encountered the curriage Thursday, and encountered the curtain Friday in St. Louis, are Edward A. Keiling of 3611 Rauschenbach avenue, Mrs. Blanche Mills of Jacksonville, Ill., and Mrs. Mills' husband Charles, who has greatest reason of all to feel aggrieved at the pranks of the gentleman whose only clothing consists of a quiver.

All the participants in the affair are deaf and dumb mutes, and Keiling is particularly well-known among members of the St. Louis Deaf Mute Club. Mrs. Mills is also known to the members, having attended several of the steamboat excursions of the society. She is the daughter of the late David M, Williams, once pension agent of Jackson-wille, Ill.

Early Friday morning Kelling went to the St. Louis Car shops, told his employers that he had been married, and asked for an extension of his vacation until next Monday. This was cheerfully granted with congratulations conveyed by the sign manual. Then he went back to Mrs. Mills. About fifteen minutes later Mills walked in.

The scene that ensued was not boisterous but it was eloquent. Forgetting for the moment his only means of speech, the mute alphabet. Mills, by gestures that themselves spoke, overwhelmed the couple with his outburst of grief and indignation. Upon the couch lay his little blue-eyed boy. At the foot of the bed sat his wife. Kelling was seated at a window gazing upon the woman whom he had taken from her home. Mills' entrance was of course unobserved. When he stood in the center of the room, looking first at the woman, then at her began rapidly to form words upon his fingers. Mrs. Mills burted her face in her hands. As interpreted to the reporter, Mills demanded that his wife return home with him. She refused. Then he declared that unless she compiled he would swear out a warrant for bigamy and land her with her lover in the Penitentiary. Then the woman weakened. Two hours later she was allied with her husband against Kelling, and had only dark locoks and denuclatory gestures for him. Cupid's reign was over, so far as Kelling was concerned.

"The woman tempted me," was Kelling's defense, when a reporter sought his ex-

PERU'S NEW GOVERNMENT

Senor Candio Is Provisional President, and Caceres Takes Refuge on a Chilian Cruiser.

NEW YORK, March 22-A special dis-atch to a morning paper from Lima, Peru, through the intervention of the diplomats and the papal nuncio has been organized and is already in operation. Senor Candio is provisional president and also acts as Minister of Foreign Affairs. The Caceres is represented in the new govern-minister of Foreign Affairs. The Caceres regime is represented in the new government by Luis Felipe Villarian and Rleardo W. Espanoza. For the revolutionary party Bustamentey Salazar and Dr. Malpartida have been selected. Provisional President Candio has named Senor Vilarian as Minister of the Interior, Senor Espinoza, Minister of Justice and Senor Malpartida as Minister of Finance.

Upon the terms of the agreement by which hostilities ceased, President Caceres surrendered the reins of Government and will retire to Ancion. Nicolas Pierola, the leader of the revolutionists and formerly President will go to Chetillos. Caceres took refuge on board the Chillan cruiser, El Presidente Pinto. There was also an immediate reorganization of the department of Lima, which consists of six provinces. The new Government has issued an order releasing all political prisoners. The fears that the Caceres soldiery would commit depredations have vanished. Banks have loaned money and the troops have been said and the forces disbanded.

The streets of Lima have a festive appearance. Revolutionary troops fraternized with the residents, and cries of "Viva Peru!" Viva Peru!" Viva Peru!" Viva Perola!" resounded through the treets. It is reported that Gen. Mas was made a prisoner by the revolutionists near luzzo.

made a prisoner by the revolutionists near Cuszo.

News from the North is that both armies in that section are still under arms. Col. Pull, chief of the revolutionary staff, directed the troops around Lima. He entered the city with Pierola, Isaacs and other chiefs. But few of the revolutionary chiefs were hurt in the battle, but more than 100 of the Caceres leaders were wounded.

This change in the government was the result of a three-days' battle in Lima. The revolutionary forces, led by Pierola, entered the city at dawn Sunday. Their entrance was not suspected by the guards in the city, as a heavy mist concealed their movements. When the forces reached the principal squares they seized the favorable positions. Immediately a desperate battle began, which lasted all through the day and part of the night. It was intensely dark, and as the gas supply was cut off the streets and buildings were without illumination. When the fighting ceased at night, drunken soldiers roamed through the streets, firing shots recklessly.

The battle was renewed at 5 o'clock Mon-the fighting ceased at high, drumes soliers roamed through the streets, firing shots recklessly.

The battle was renewed at 5 o'clock Monday morning and continued all through the day. The night was one of terror. Depredations by the Government forces marked the opening of hostilities on Tuesday. The troops sacked the Union and National Clubs and many of the shops. Then the diplomats and papal nunclo, Mgr. Macchi, intervened. An armistice was arranged for twenty-four hours to give an opportunity to bury the dead and remove the dead horses, as there was danger of pestilence from the bodies in the streets. They were collected and burned in the Flaza Des Armes.

As a result of three days' fighting more than 1,500 combatants were killed and wounded on both sides. The Red Cross ambulance service rendered great aid during the battle. Many of the soldiers, ignorant of the significance of the symbol on the ambulances, fired on them. Many foreign and native women assisted in caring for the wounded. The American legation was in a particularly dangerous position. Mrs. McKensie, wife of the United States Minister, narrowly escaped being shot. More than fifty refugees sought an asylum in the legation.

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 22.-Ther is a provision in the sundry civil bill which phably result in the survey of all lands within the limits of railroad grants. By the terms of grants to railroads the roads compelled to pay for the surveys of their lands before title could pass, but thereafter the Government is obliged to pay for the survey of even numbered sections within these grants. The surveys have gone along rather slowly, as the appropriations have been used outside as well as inside the grants, but in the last bill a separate ap-propriation of $100,000 was made for the sur-vey of lands within the railroad grants, and it is made a continuing appropriation.

tion Company Probed.

The affairs of the "Southern Construc-tion Co." of St. Louis are being probed by Postmaster Carlisle. To that end he was closeted all Friday morning with repre-sentatives of the company, about which no one seems to know anything, except the men questioned by the Postmaster. Its of-fice could not be located after a careful-search of the city directory or of the down-town office buildings.

For the past few weeks the following ad-vertisement has appeared in the New York daily papers:

street entrance and asked to see the Postmaster.

Mr. Fleming acted as chief spokesman.
He handed to Postmaster Carlisle a communication from New York covering the situation, and stated that he wanted to explain all, and to correct the "gross error," as he put it. Mr. Carlisle had already heard of the matter and asked Mr. Fleming who the gentleman was with him.
"That is G. M. McElhiney of St. Charles, Mo.," said he.
Mr. Carlisle repeated the name over and over again, and then a rather embarrassing scene followed. Mr. McElhiney is no other than a cousin of Mr. Carlisle's wife. Mrs.
Carlisle had often spoken of him to the Postmaster and he had recognized the name. It was the first time they had ever met, and the circumstances made it some name. It was the first time they had ever met, and the circumstances made it somewhat unpleasant.

The three men immediately adjourned to the Postmaster's private office. A Post-Dispatch reporter was admitted shortly afterwards, just as Mr. Fleming stepped out to secure the mail from the box. He returned with some twenty communications, and voluntarily turned them over to Mr. Carlisle. They proved to be additional answers to the advertisement for "Engineers Wanted." One letter from a man named Perry, of New York, contained a money order for $2.

Mr. McElhiney said it was the first guarantee money received.

Both gentlemen denied the truth of allegations that they were running a fake concern, and offered to prove it. Mr. Fleming said that he was temporarily located at $t. Charles. Mo., with McElhiney, who resides there. He said he did not see the necessity of having an office in $t. Louis. He had secured a lock-box, and one of the company came to the city every day to secure the mail.

THE COMPANY'S MEMBERS.

came to the city every day to secure the mail.

"Who compose the company?" was asked.
"R. M. Wheelock, who is at present en route to Brazil, is President. Mr. McElhiney is Secretary and I am the Superintendent. As to myself," he continued, "I am a rail-road contractor. I have worked for the Wabash. I helped construct the Santa Fe and the Mexico, Cuernavaco and Pacific Rail-roads. The road we are intending to construct is the Trans-Brazilian road, from Rio Janeiro to San Marannos, a distance of 900 miles. The advertising, etc., referred to is a method pursued by me in engaging help. I ask for the $2 guarantee to insure the sincerity of the applicants to cover loss on shipping contracts. I need about 200 men, and I shall arrange with the Ward line of steamers of New York to ship them. I delayed doing this until last evening, and this, no doubt, caused the trouble. I suppose that when the applicants went to see if we had made any deal they were answered in the negative.

that when the applicants went to see if we had made any deal they were answered in the negative."

Secretary McElhiney said the trouble, according to his opinion, was all due to one man, a civil engineer, whose name he did not mention, whom they refused to give employment, because, so Mr. McElhiney says, they didn't advertise for any. He also denied that similar letters, as described, were sent to each man, and he explained the object of advertising in Eastern papers to be the securing of the "cream" of workmen and saving of railroad fare from Western points to the seacoast.

No attempt was made by either Fleming or McElhiney to show the railroad contract. They left, after promising to pay the postmaster another visit in a few days. Mr. Carlisis stated that, from the evidence, he believes everything all right. However, further investigation will be made. Before leaving the gentlemen stated that the construction company was organized Jan. 2 last, and that its chief backers were Messrs. Wheelock, Tansey and Fluent, three New York capitalists.

GEORGE THIELL'S DISAPPEARANCE.

His Wife Fears That He Has Committed George L. Thiell, a machinist, who has a wife and two children at 2321 Olive street and has been employed at the machine shop of Fred J. Swaine, 207 Chestnut street, has disappeared. He left home at the usual hour Thursday morning dressed in his working clothes, but did not report at the shop. Thieli came here three weeks ago from Philadelphia, where he recently failed in business. His wife fears that he has com-mitted suicide.

OBITUARY NOTES.

FT. WAYNE, Ind., March 22.—Isabella Workman, a colored servant at the home of Judge Colerick, is dead. She was born a slave on the plantation of Niel Gillespie, grandfather of James G. Blaine, and has been a nurse through five generations. She was well acquainted with all the Blaines. The great statesman had a long interview with her in 1834, when he was in Fort Wayne. She will be buried in Indianapolis.

NEW YORK, March 22.—Mrs. Christle Washington, born in bondage in the Puritan Valley in 1779, when it was occupied by soldiers of the revolution, died in Lottery Field, a colored settlement north of Somerville, N. J., last night. The eldest of her children is 89 years old.

BOSTON, March 22.—Mrs. Abbie N. Gan-nett, essayist, poet and author and philan-thropist, one of the best known women in New England, died in Malden last night, aged 50.

PHILADELPHIA, March 22.—Ex-Mayor and ex-Congressman Richard Vaux died at his home here this morning from an attack of the grippe.

The use of blood as a curative agent is said to be on 'the increase in Paris, and, certainly, it appears that persons still resort to the abattoires every morning to partake of this nauseous form of so-called cure. Although French doctors de not often prescribe these forms of treatment. "blood baths" are not infrequently used, and certain patent medicines are sold under the name of 'poudre de sang" and other litles.

SAM JONES SPEAKS TO MOTHERS.

As the Twig Is Bent So Grows the Tree to Maturity.

LOVE THE TRUEST OF GUIDES.

Characteristic Talk by the Revivalist to the Daughters, Wives and Mothers Who Listened to Him.

Sam Jones held a "dove-party," as he called it, in Entertainment Hall Friday morning, and his sermon was addressed to "Mothers, Wives and Daughters." The anement served to draw out a large ce and the hall was more than filled. On the stage were seated about fifty ladies white many who could not find seats stood Preschers are good, the Bible is good, but there is nothing on earth better than a good mother.

"The day you give a child a good mother you have thrown around that child an influence that the devil cannot break down. A child is so circumstanced that it cannot leave its mother for two or three years after its birth. It is then in an impressionable state, and if mothers cannot place their good impress upon them then, how can they train them later.

"How few of us look at this responsibility right? I know that the saleons and gambling places in St. Louis have increased, but mothers have the proper influence to overceme these temptations. I know that every man who has grown up has run the gauntlet, and he owes his success to the character and training of his sweet mother.

"There is no relation more sacred than that of motherhood. I honor those women who stand on the platform and charm and mould public morals. But there is a higher position than that, and I say that a mother who has raised five boys right has five votes for the right. We will never reform this land until the mothers reform it at home. I am not here to abridge the rights of women. I think they have a right to be anything a man is, except the father of a fam'. "Woe to those who begin to despise their en. I think they have a right to be anything a man is, except the father of a family. Woe to those who begin to despise their children. Every guilty one of you know what I mean. The innocent need not know. I tell you when canary birds and poodle dogs take the place of children the race will run out. I saw a woman once fondle a dog while her nurse fondled the baby, and I found the cause of it later, when I discovered that the woman had an over-weaning love for her husband's kinfolk. I don't believe in divorces, and I like my wife better than any other woman I have ever met, but if there is anything that would lead me to seek a divorce it would be to see my wife riding down town with a poodle dog in her lap.

"There was no more blessed woman than Mrs. Wesley. God gave her nineteen cbildren, and two of them revolutionized the morals of the world."

The preacher then told a story of a family which formerly lived in his circuit when he was a young preacher, and which had afterward grown rich and entered high society, and in commenting on it said:

"They joined the 400; and I'll tell you that's mighty near certain damnation. It's fine to have a grand home and move in high society, and in commenting on it said:

"They you knew what you have to pay for it there is not a woman in this audience who would not select the humblest cottage in the land rather than make the change."

They received a number of letters have made it so hard for me to raise my children that I am going to give it to them every time (applause). I'll teil you that the influence of society people is more baneful than that of salcons. Now, why don't you-clap? The card parties and punch bowls are schools in which the boys matriculate into drunkenness while the salcon only catches the bums.

There are a lot of you women drinking beer and drinking it for your health, when there is not a hog in this State that will drink it unless you sweeten it for him. I cannot understand why people give whisky for medicine—why we have to give the devil's best friend to God's creatures to make them well.

I can understand a man's being wicked, but I never could understand a woman without religion. I cannot understand how a woman could be otherwise than the best and noblest creature in the world. There was never a child who ever thought its mother did wrong, and if mothers do wrong the children will do the same, because they will think it's right.

When a mother turns her daughter out of her front door with a dude and they come back at 2 o'clock in the morning, if there ever was a girl that needed a mother it is that one. I am sorry for the parents who have lost control of their children. I like a woman that's got spunk. Children know who to fool with, and if they have a mother that won't give in won't bother her. If everybody here goes home to-day and dedicates their homes to God we will soon run the devil out of the city.

Sam did not touch upon the latter parts of his subject and these he will talk on Saturday morning at 10 o'clock. He will also speak at the Merchants' Exchange at 12 o'clock.

JUROR SHOEMAKER.

He Satisfactorily Explains His Absence From the Court.

"No, your Honor," Shoemaker pleaded earnestly: "I didn't know I was wanted here yesterday afternoon. I understood Mr. Schapperkoetter to tell me that you discharged me until this morning. So I went home and about 3 o'clock I went to church and remained there until 8 o'clock. After supper I again went to church and remained there until 8 o'clock. After supper I again went to church and remained there till 8:30. When I came home a Deputy Sheriff was at my house and said I was wanted. I said I'd go with him right then. I am anxious to do my duty as a citizen."

I was wanted. I said I'd go with him right then. I am anxious to do my duty as a citizen."

The court questioned him at length and pondered deeply over the matter, but not being sure that Shoemaker absented himself wilfully let him off on payment of costs. Shoemaker's mistake was this: He was one of the panel of jurymen selected to try the Lane murder case. This panel was selected the same day as the panels in the Thompson murder case and the case of Thomas Kinney, charged with assault and battery. Some of the jurymen became confused and Shoemaker when he heard the Thompson panel was discharged until this morning, supposed he was free. The Kinney case was given to the jury at noon yesterday and at 3 o'clock the court, finding that they had not yet agreed on a verdict, discharged them, giving as a reason that he had been informed by Deputy Sheriff Schapperkoetter that one of their number, John Shoemaker, was also on the panel for the Lane case, which he wanted to take up. After the jury had been discharged Judge Edmunds found that Shoemaker was not only not in the Kinney jury, but was not in the courtroom at all. A Deputy Sheriff was sent to his home, 2656 Rutger street, but falling to find him there the court discharged the jury and ordered another panel summoned.

"IF YOU WANT A KISS."

the New York Recorder.

This paragraph is not written with a view to inquiring too critically, but stress of fircumstances forces irresistibly to the ront the question of the authorship of that front the question of the authorship of that latest sweet song of the hour—"If You Want a Kiss, Why Take It." From appearances this tender morceau of rhyme and sentiment is destined to share the fate of "Beautiful Snow," whose authorship, it may be remembered, has been as much a source of dispute as the Iliad and the Odyssey. In the case of the latter sweet song referred to the question seems to lie between our friend Hub. Smith'and Dr. Mary Walker.

Mr. Smith has set the words to music in his own inimitable style, and in the published song we find him claiming also the credit for authorship of the poem. In a late issue of the Boston Globe the poem appeared in a slightly amended form, credited to Dr. Mary Walker. In Mr. Smith's version the opening lines run like this:

There's a joily Saxon proverb.

Which is very much like this:
That a man is half in heaven.

If he has a woman's kiss.

There's a jolly fresh proverb,

There's a jolly fresh proverb,

In Dr. Mary Walker's version these lines appear:

There's a jolly fresh proverb.

That is pretty much like this: etc.

The writer of this paragraph, prompted by a sincere desire to contribute something to the truth relating to the rising controversy over the authorship of this tender osculatory composition, calls the attention of Mr. Smith and Dr. Walker to the fact that he has now in his scrap book the identical poem, clipped from an exchange nearly ten years ago, and credited to the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, the author's name not appearing. It is an interesting question whether Mr. Smith or Dr. Walker originally contributed the poem to that paper.

many years ago by Maj. S. H. M. Byers of Des Moines, Io., and are included in his book, "Happy Isles, and Other Poems." He deserves all the credit of them, and Dr. Mary Walker will be willing, without doubt, that he should have it.

From the Baltimore Sun. From the Baltimore Sun.

John Connolly of 1501 Eastern avenue entered the Eastern Police Station yesterday in great alarm. He informed Lieut. Jones that on Monday night he had swallowed his glass eye. Connolly said he took his eye out and put it in a glass of water before going to elsep. During the night he awoke, and, being thirsty, jumped out of bed, seized the glass of water, and swallowed its contents in one gulp. He felt a lump in his atomach and realized that he had swallowed his glass eye. Connolly was very much disturbed, and feared serious consequences as the result of his act. Lieut. Jones advised Connolly to take a dose of medicine to remove the eye from his stomach and Connolly departed to act on the advice. At last accounts the eye was still in the wrong place.

PHIL HAQUETTE'S

He Favors the Completion of the City Hall.

MAKING HIS FIGHT ON THAT

He Favors Cutting Down Municipal Expenses if It Will Conduce to the Furtherance of His Hobby.

Phil Haquette, candidate for the City Council on the Democratic ticket, was seen at his home, $11 Morgan street, this morning, by a Post-Dispatch reporter, and asked to express his views on current issues in municipal affairs.

Mr. Haquette prefaced the interview by tell you that I will be posted before ever I cast a vote on the subject if I am elected. I know there is opposition to me on the ground of my being in the saloon business, but if I am elected I want to show the people that a saloon man can be honest and right on public questions. I have been in St. Louis nearly forty years, and I have never done anything that was not square. I have never before been in politics and I am not making a canvass as a saloon man. I determined I would not take advantage of my business to make votes by going into places where other candidates will not go. I am staying away from my own place of business, and I am not making a saloon canvass. I am just making a fair fight as a citizen, and I am going to win."

Mr. Haquette has an emphatic way of speaking, and has a slight French accent. He has all the French excitement of manner and gesticulation, but he leaves little doubt of his meaning.

"What is your opinion as to the granting of franchises to street and steam railway companies, and do you favor the sale of such franchises to the highest bidder?" was the first question.

"From what I have read franchises have been let go too cheap, but still they have helped build up the city. I am in favor of making the companies pay for what new franchises they get and I tink it is a good scheme to sell them at auction."

"What are your opinions on the conduit question? Should the city own and operate or lease them, or permit various corporations to dig up the streets to lay them."

question? Should the city own and operate or lease them, or permit various corporations to dig up the streets to lay them?"

"I have not studied that question at all. I was not thinking of running for the Council when that came up. But I am a practical man and would soon catch on to whether a bill was for the benefit of the city or a job for the benefit of a corporation, and I would vote right. I have been a man of the people and often I hear matters talked about and people might think I was a dummy because I say nothing, but all the time I get on to what is going on."

"Are you in favor of transacting municipal affairs on a business basis? Do you think a city employe should be paid a larger salary than he would be paid for the same service by a business house?"

"I am in favor of getting good men to do city work, and of paying them what they are worth, but I see no reason why they should be paid more than they are worth only because they work for the city."

"Have you read the report of the Council Committee on Retrenchment and Reform, and do you favor the recommendations and do you favor the recommendations made?"

"I must acknowledge that I did not read the report carefully, but I am in favor of running the government as cheap as it can be run and run right, and putting the money into finishing the City Hall."

"Are you in favor of reducing the number of employes in the City Hall."

"I do not pretend to be posted on that. If it can be found out for certain that the work can be done with less men it ought to be. I do not favor paying men to do nothing, but I do not think changes should be made without knowing what we are doing."

"Do you favor dispensing with the Sprinkling Inspectors and letting the police do the work?"

ling Inspectors and letting the police do the work?"

"I have not given any thought to that. If the inspectors can be done without and the money saved put to finishing the City Hall I am in favor of it, but I am not posted on what work the inspectors do or whether the police can do it."

"Do you think reforms are needed in the Street Department as to street cleaning, etc.?"

"You may say that I do in the strongest language. I have seen in the Post-Dispatch about the way the laborers have been treated. You may put it strong that I think the men should get all it was intended for them to get without any rakeoff."

"Are you in favor of the Senate election bill?"

"Are you in ravor of the Benate election bill?"

"I have not read the bill. There have been two or three, but you may say that I am in favor of honest elections."

"Are you in favor of the reform in the Coroner's office, by which the stenographer is to be paid a fixed salary instead of by fees."

Coroner's office, by which the stenographer is to be paid a fixed salary instead of by fees."

"The stenographer, Mr. Robinson, is a friend of mine, and I believe he is a good man. I favor paying good salaries for good work. As a gean-ral thing I think the fee system is wrong. If there is to be a salaried man the salary should be big enough to have the work done right."

"Are you in favor of creating the new office of Associate City Counsellor?"

"I am not in favor of any new offices unless they are necessary. You have not asked me about the new City Hall. I want you to quote me strong on that. I am in favor of cutting down expenses if the money can be put to finishing the City Hall. I am making that a strong point in this fight. The way I was nominated I am not pledged to any-body or any faction, and I am free to make my own fight, and I am going strong on that one thing. I favor finishing the new City Hall at once."

"If the money can be saved by cutting down expenses do it that way. If it can't, then I say borrow the money, issue bonds, get the money any way to finish the City Hall. It is a disgrace to leave it the way it is, and it would be a great benefit to the city to have it finished, besides the work it would give to the working men. I don't know what else to tell you. I am not a politician and may make mistakes. I may hurt myself by not being better posted, but if I say anything to hurt myself it is with henest meaning, and if I am elected I will do the right thing. People don't know ms. I will surprise some of them. There will be no galloping around with the boys. When my business is done my place is here with this little woman, my wife, and these two little fellows." referring to two chips of the old block who were clambering over this knee. "I will give the people if I am elected a square deal, you may bet on that. I have always tried to do right, and some of the very people who oppose me because I am in the saloon business praised me as a publicapirited man and a good fellow before I was a candida

MILLIONS IN

Princely Resting Places for Dead Millionaires.

A $250,000 MARBLE TOMB.

Greenwood and Woodlawn Cemeteries in New York Becoming Villages of Costly Marble Structures.

Special Correspondence of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, March 19.—The modern American millionaire is not satisfied unless he has a splendid mausoleum in which his sacred remains shall rest when he can no longer draw checks. The rich men of New York spent over half a million dollars in 1894 in mortuary palaces, and Greenwood and Woodlawn Cemeteries are fast beoming villages of stone.

The new tomb in Woodlawn of Collis P. Huntington, the millionaire railway mag-nate, is said by the builder and the cemetery people to be the most expensive in the world. A quarter of a million dollars unusual size in order to give it more durability.

It stands upon a hill about twenty-five feet above the road, and in the center of a large plot of ground which is said to have added $30,000 to the cost of the tomb. Several flights of broad, massive granite steps lead up to a great platform in front of the tomb proper. This is 28x42 feet, and its roof is twenty-four feet above the platform. The mausoleum is one of the most attractive in the cemetery because of its grand simplicity.

The peaked roof is supported by fourteen polished granite columns in the Doric style, and overhangs the vestibule and doorway. On the lintel the name Huntington, and overhangs the vestibule and convey. On the lintel the name Huntington, and over a grand of the colors. The tomb within is very plain. There are sixteen catacombs, in one of which lie the remains of Mrs. Huntington, who died about six years ago. The mausoleum was over a year and a half in course of erection, and has just been finished.

The tomb of Giovanni P. Morosini, the who died about six years and a half in course of erection, and has just been finished.

The tomb of Giovanni P. Morosini, the Italian banker-millionaire and associate of the late Jay Gould, which is now nearly completed; that of the late Jabes A. Bostwick, of Standard Oil fame, ahd that of William H. Webb, the millionaire shipbuilder, are among the other new additions to the "millionaire city of the dead," as some one has called Woodlawn Cemetery. Morosini's mausoleum is said by the builders to have cost $50,000, but from a source which seems quite reliable it is learned that a bid of $52,000 for building it was refused. The figure given for Mr. Bostwick's showy tomb is $40,000 and for Mr. Morosini's mausoleum is built of Westerly rose granite of fine quality, and is in the form of a cross. It stands in the center of a circular plot of ground, seventy-five feet in diameter, in the new part of the cemetery. Within the tomb is most expensively decorated. There are ten catacombs, four in each of the wings of the cross and two in the rear under the stained-glass window. This elaborate memorial window and the Florentine mosaic decorations of the celling walls and floor added greatly to-the expense of the tomb. The mausoleums of Mr. Bostwick and Mr. Webb are somewhat similar in character. They are both high, square, monument-like affairs, having two columns at each of their corners, and an elaborate finial supplanting the domed roofs. Both are conspicuous-as landmarks, being built of white granite and of showy architecture. The tomb of the late Jay Gould has been built for about ten years, but it is still regarded as one of the most imposing pieces of mortuary architecture in the country. When new it was, without doubt, the finest and costliest in this country, but within the last few years several more costly tombs have been erected. The Gould mausoleum in its general style resembles the Greek Parthenon, and has often been mistaken for a miniature of that famous ruin.

often been mistaken for a miniature of that famous ruin.

In technical phraseology it is a Greek hexastyle peripheral temple, with eleven detached columns on each side and four at each end, supporting the peaked roof. By many well-known architectural authorities it is said to be the best specimen of pure Grecian architecture in the United States. The Parthenon is Doric in style, while Gould's mausoleum is of the Ionic school. In the ceiling there is one enormous slab of granite weighing over six tons.

school. In the ceiling there is one enormous slab of granite weighing over six tons.

Dr. Lucien C. Warner, of corset fame; William F. Foster, a wealthy glove manufacturer, and Dr. Clarke W. Dunlop, who has made a fortune in patent medicines, have also provided new mausoleums in Woodlawn for the final resting places of their families. All three of these new tombs are both expensive and showy.

The architecture is both novel and imposing. Instead of the inclosed vault which almost all of the others have, the Foster mausoleum will be an open and exposed burying place, consisting of an arched roof, supported on columns over a raised platform upon which will be the sarcophagi for the reception of the bones of the owner and his wife. Beneath the platform, which is to be eight feet from the ground, there will be crypts for the coffins of other members of Mr. Foster's family.

Standing in the center of a circular plot, 66 feet in diameter, near the lake, the dome of this tomb will rise 62 feet, which is several feet higher than any other monument in the cemtery. Sixteen great columns of polished Concord granite will support the dome, which will be composed of enormous slabs of the same material. Upon the arched lintels over the four stone stairways that lead to the main platform of the structure and upon the iron work in a number of other places will appear the owner's name and initials, cut in fac-simile of his business trade mark.

Dr. Dunlop's burying-place is less aggressive than that of Mr. Foster, but still a rather showy structure. It is said to have cost over $25,000.

Dr. Warner's mausoleum has been much commended for its comparative simplicity, In form it is circular and 24 feet in diameter, It is 24 feet in height and crowned with a feet in diameter.

AN UP-BAIT FISHERMAN.

Cyril Crimmins of New York and His Father Depopulated Florids Waters.

special Correspondence of the Pest-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, March 19.—This is a picture of Cyril Crimmins, the young son of John D. Crimmins. The fish hanging on the palm tree by his side are mutton fish. They are not pretty, but they are full of fight, and they were quite willing to pull young Crimmins into the sad sea, instead of allowing him to hang them on paim trees.

Mr. Crimmins himself is not totally unknown to New Yorkers. He has a small interest in several rather prosperous surface roads in New York and New Jersey, and whenever he pays his nickel (if he ever does) in a Broadway cable car, he enjoys the feeling of knowing that it will come back to him. Other New Yorkers enjoy this experience only when the nickel is a bad one. Some time ago Mr. John D. Crimmins decided to go a fishing. He didn't have to dig his own worms, neither were time and distance an object. So he and his boys went to Florida, armed with rods, reels and lines that were shiny and costly enough to justify any really thoughtful and longheaded fish in coming right ashore and flopping to Crimmins' feet without waiting to be caught. The fish didn't do that, but they came to the Crimmins syndicate in great numbers, and Mr. Crimmins in particular did so well that he achieved the distinction of being "high hook."

Mr. Crimmins can tell a good fish story. He showed that last week when he returned with Cyril. Here is his tale, plain, unvarnished, and unembellished, as all fish stories, it is well-known, have been from time immemorial:

"We caught more than fifteen different kinds of fish," sald he. "It was a glorious turned with Cyril. Here is his tale, plain, unvarnished, and unembellished, as all fish stories, it is well-known, have been from time Immemorial:

"We caught more than fifteen different kinds of fish," said he. "It was a glorious time. Our greatest victory was the capture of a 355-pound jew fish. The natives told me it was the largest fish ever caught down there; the biggest before that having weighed 250 nounds. I was in a small, open boat with two Bahama negroes when I had the battle with the fish.

"By the way, the Bahama negroes are the greatest fishermen in the world. One of my attendants was Charley, the most noted fisherman in Florida. Charley performed marvelous feats in the water. He thought nothing of going down five or six fathoms and remaining three of four minutes.

"The grouper, a fish that fights hard and always seeks shelter under the rocks, took our nooks several times and then darted under the rocks. Charley each time tumbled over and went down to bring the fish from their shelter. We caught a muraena over four feet six inches long. Large and costly hooks are used to catch that fish, and frequently many hooks are lost in trying to land a muraena, One gave me a lot of trouble, but Charley soon ended it. He fell backward from the side of the boat. In a minute or so his black head appeared on the surface of the water.

"Pull in dar, boss,' said Charley, as he held the big fish aloft. One afternoon, off Palm Beach, we saw a huge hog-nosed turtle far down in the water. Charley turned another somersault from the boat, and in a few minutes brought the turtle up and threw it into our craft.

"Cyril was proud of his work. Unaided he caught the first and the largest of what the natives call 'mutton fish' landed this season. The fish is really a species of the snapper and is edible.

"We visited Senator Quay's delightful place at St. Lucie. Vice President Frank Thompson of the Pennsylvania Railroad was there with a magnificent private train and a number of guests, among whom were the daughters of Senato

LUNATICS WHO PRIGH INSANITY.

Curious Manifestations Which the Experts Have to Deal With.

"One would think that the last thing a really insane person would need or wish said an expert on insanity. "Insane pe ple, however, all have one peculiarity that seems to indicate insanity, but close watching betrays the fact that his symptoms are feigned—he is shamming. This has unusually been regarded as conclusive evidence of his sanity. It is really nothing of the kind. The doctors know now that a unatic will sham as quickly as a sane man, and his shamming, being often clumsily done, is much more apt to be found out.

"Crazy people when feigning generally sham a different kind of insanity from that which they really possess. For instance, in a recently reported case a demented pauper was accustomed to proclaim loudly that he was insane, having been made so by an accumulation of tar and grease in his head. This was entirely sham, the man having found that it drew attention to him and gained him presents of tobacco. His real hallucinations he kept carefully in the background. The contrast between his obtusive shamming and his conceaiment of his real symptoms was very curious.

"The desire to attract attention is very strong on the part of some lunatics, and it is impossible that in many of the cases that interest visitors at asylums where the patient asserts that he is Queen Victoria or Julius Caesar, the whole thing is a sham. In one recorded case an asylum patient was much put out by finding that a companion who claimed to have written some of Shakspeare's plays, attracted the attention of visitors. He accordingly went the man one better, by claiming to have written all the works of Byron, Shelley and Milton. This claim, he admitted to the physicians, was fraudulent, and he made it to visitors only.

ciaim, he admitted to the physicians, was fraudulent, and he made it to visitors only.

"In Chicago, several years ago, a supposedly harmless lunatic, who was confined in the Bridewell awaiting legal action on his condition, brained a crippled fellow-prisoner with the latter's wooden leg. On being charged with the deed he showed very plainly that though he appreciated his situation, he was determined to sham insanity, putting on a vacant look in reply to all questions. Another Chicago case was that of a man who had committed murder by command, as he claimed, of the Virgin Mary. His lawyers, who supposed him sane, advised him to feign insanity, which he did; pretending to be raving mad. The sham and the real insanity were both detected by the experts, and the man was sent to an asylum.

"This peculiarity of lunitics makes the asylum.

"This peculiarity of lunitics makes the task of a modern expert on insanity doubly hard. He has to deal not only with sane persons pretending to be insane and with insane persons pretending to be sane, but with lunatics who felgn insanity. By skilful examination and cross-examination persons pretending to be insane and with insane persons pretending to be sane, but with lunatics who felgn insanity. By skil-ful examination and cross-examination he has to elicit the truth from all these un-willing witnesses. His task is scarcely an enviable one."

Nice Point in Law Which the Thespian Learned to His Sorrow. rom the New York World.

When the city filled up with actors last summer a talented Thespian who had closd a season with Salvini arrived and sen lodging house where for years he had been a welcome guest. He paid in advance for a room for a month. The summer passed way and when the leaves began to fall the professionals began to leave, but the Thes plan held out for an engagement that befitted his high talents. He moved over to the sunny side of the Rialto as the days grew colder. He was full of hope; in fact he was embarrassed as to which of the several flattering offers to accept, so he told his trusting landlady.

She seemed to have every confidence in in him; in fact, treated him with such consideration that about six weeks ago, without solicitation upon his part, she began to send to his room each morning a steaming hot cup of coffee and a fresh and inviting breakfast roll. He accepted the matutinal offering as a delicate mark of esteem.

The snow was falling fast in the wee small hours on the night of the tragedy in this Thespian's life as he entered the Thirtyfourth street establishment and reaching his room door, found that it had been secured by a heavy padlock. He knew his rights, SHEEP SALES. BIRDS AS HUNTERS.

Hawks Capture Rabbits and the Cormor ants-Ancient Sport of Falconry.
Written for the Sunday Post-Dispatch. The training of birds as hunters either of animals, is a very ancient sport. In Eu-rope it took the form of falconry, and was under the patronage of royalty. At one time the court of no noble was complete without a maws the place where the faltime the court of no noble was complete without a mews, the place where the falcons were kept.

The falconer and his cage were part of a baron's retinue. This cage was not like the cage of to-day, but an oblong square or circle of light wood, in the center of which the falconer walked, supporting the weight by shoulder straps and steadying it with his hands. Historians vie with each other in their descriptions of the chase. The magnificent horses, the plumed knights and the gayly dressed ladies made seemblage.

In falcon, carefully hooded, sat on the wrist of the falconer, who was often some fair lady, till the game was sighted. Then the jesses (two slips of leather, one on each leg) were cast free from the creance or leash, the hood having first been slipped from the falcon's head, and away flew the bird.

A short, swift chase and the quarry was tean, the hood having hirst been sipped from the falcon's head, and away flew the bird.

A short, swift chase and the quarry was struck to the earth with the sharp talons of the falcon buried in its body. The cavalcade galloped to the spot where the lure flashed a few times before the falcon and it left its prey to resume its place on the falconer's wrist.

The hood was slipped over its head again, the jesses made fast to the creance and pulet ensued till some other prey was sighted. The lure spoken of above was made of a bunch of gaudy feathers with a small piece of wood in the center, to which was attached a piece of raw meat. Falconry is but little practiced to-day. The gyr falcon is the king of all falcons. Courageous and rapid in flight, it never misses its quarry. It is about twenty-three inches in length and of a dark brown, shaded with a lighter tint of color. The feathers are edged with white.

The peregrine falcon, the hobby, the merlin, the goshawk and sparrow hawk have all been trained to hunt not only their own species, but ground game. Some of them will attack their prey with great boldness and courage.

all been france to must not only their own species, but ground game. Some of them will attack their prey with great boldness and courage.

The writer once watched a fight between a merlin and a lapwing. It continued half an hour and ended in a victory for the falcon. The falcon was originally trained to hunf the heron, who in turn is a great bird at hunting fish.

The eagle will hunt its prey for hours, and will not hesitate to attack man if interfered with. Another busy little hunter is the king fisher. The natives of Northern China have trained a hawk peculiar to that vicinity in much the same way the English trained the falcon. Rabbits are, however, its principal game, and the Chinaman hunts them for his living and not for pleasure.

Several species of birds have a weakness for hunting snakes. They are considered as a benefactor of mankind, as in Capetown, where they are protected by law.

The cormorant in Eastern seas is made to do the work of a fisherman. This bird is very fond of fish, and the natives capture it and train it to fish for them. A fisherman will take several out in a boat with him perched upon bamboo canes.

As the bird might eat the fish it catches, the cunning native ties around the bird's neck a band, not too tight to impede its actions, but to prevent it swallowing anything. The hungry bird, therefore, on catching a fish will gladly return to the boat, where its master gives it a small piece as a reward for its labor.

The complete locomotive will be an exceedingly massive piece of machinery, weighing at least 100 tons, with 1,200-horse power traction. It is fitted with air brakes, the air being compressed by a small auxiliary motor in the cab. This electrical air compressor also operates the whistle. For the work contemplated thirty-six miles an hour will probably be the maximum speed.

As there will be no smoke in the tunnel it will be possible to paint it white; and as it will be illuminated by about 2,000 incandescent lamps, it will not be necessary to light the lamps in 'the cars. Passage through the tunnel will therefore be very comfortable for travelers.

They told such wild stories about this place and showed so many trophies to corroborate their stories that the writer determined to visit the ledge. Nearly every log cabin in the town was decorated with rattles, and it was, I learned, one of the regular sports of the place to go out to the ledge and kill snakes.

or rotten lime-stone stratum turned on edge and sticking out of the prairie 60 feet high, like a big quarry that had got snagged in the middle of a lake. Right on top of it, in a grove of wild fern and dwarf sycamore, lived old Burnison, in a log cabin he had built for himself about three years before when he had pre-empted the quarter section.

amore, lived old Burnison, in a log cabin he had built for himself about three years before when he had pre-empted the quarter section.

This whole bed of rock, lying in slanting and crumbiling layers, much of it as crumbly as old cheese, was literally alive with rattlesnakes. They poked their heads out of the long seams and hissed at you as you went by. They crawled down into the level grass on sunny days and wiggled and twisted in festoons, so that it was impossible to get a horse to go through.

I found that old Burniston had bought the place and made a clearing, with the rude settler's notion that he could clear out the snakes in time as he cleared out the underbrush. It took him a year to find out how big a job he had undertaken, but by that time he had got his mad up.

"I ain't druv by no reptyles," he said. "Snakes can't jump my claim."

He had three children, one a boy of 10 years. The others were mere babies, and when one of them was struck and killed by a rattler while playing in front of the cabin the mother got her mad up, too, and bundling up her share of the traps, started in a prairie schooner, and went back with her other baby to her parents in Ohlo, leaving old John and his boy behind to fight snakes. And at it they went, hammer and tongs, with a new vengeance. When I reached the place old Burnison had settled down to anake killing as a business. He had gradually given up all attempts to work the farm and devoted himself to a ceaseless war of extermination. He said he had killed as many as fifty rattlers in a day, but they were "gettin' scary or him now" and knew his step. "Besides," said he. "I ain't as anxious to kill as I was, seeing as how snakes is a better paying crop than corn." Then he told me his extraordinary experience, sitting there before his cabin, with my horse tied in a clear space where the earth had been pounded down smooth, and a line of broken glass, the remnants of bottles, marked the one safe inclosure where his friend Crotalus was excluded, and in which he had a helfer.

clevated railroads, and for light traffic on small steam roads.

The Iccomotives have two trucks, each having two axies, and each axie a 30-horse power motor. The motors are gearless and are supported on spiral springs resting on the frames of the locomotive truck. This method of suspension leaves the wheels free to adjust themselves to the irregularities of the roadbed and tends to diminish the wear of both tracksandmotors.

The motor fields are of iron clad type having each separate windings embedded in a mica-lined slot, cut into the curved body of the laminated iron armature. The axies of the locomotive pass through the hollow-shaft on which the armatures are mounted. These shafts rest on the bearings of the motor frame and are connected to the axies by universal couplings, which allow of freedom of motion in all directions. There are four sets of brushes to each commutator. The motors are controlled by means of series parallel controllers set up in the interior of the cab.

The truck suspended from journal boxes is constructed of heavy beams which will form the foundation for the locomotive cab which is of sheet iron of symmetrical design, and so curved off as to diminish the atmospheric resistance. There is ample space in the cab for the motorman's movements.

The virus of the deadly tarantula is a similarly mysterious product, and is even now used in the preparation of a quack nostrum largely sold in this city for the cure of fever and ague.

The writer of this article became aware of this fact some years ago when traveling across the State of Iowa on horseback, trying to locate a section of land. In the course of his prospecting in several directions from the land office, which was then at Des Moines, he came to an initial settlement in Tama County, and, while stopping there, heard of a "rattlesnake ledge" about four miles northeast of the town, that had been pre-empted by a man from Ohio.

They told such wild stories about the venom and sent it to his correspondent, with a complaint that it didn't pay to "gether it."

What was his surprise to receive an answer, a lengthy letter from a Chicago firm for which the Des Moines correspondent was only an agent, thanking him for the virus and remitting 310, with special instructions how to "gether" the poison without so much trouble. He was to pull the fangs before the snake was killed and while his mouth was open. "Of course," and the letter, "you couldn't very well do it after the snake is dead, because the fang is folded back and hidden in the folds of the maxiliary gland. We send you by express to our Des Moines agent a pair of forceps specially constructed for this work, which we furnish to our agents."

Here the old man got up and brought me a long-handled steel instrument of the most delicate workmanship, and I accompanied him and his boy to see how it worked. We had not sone a hundred feet through the plum grove before we heard the rattle of a snake, and his boy, turning aside into the bush, found his victim colled, with his head up, and in half a minute he had his how to the neck of the animal, forked stick over the neck of the animal, state of the scale of the scale of the same animal, forked stick over the neck of the animal, state of the same animal, state of the same animal, forked stick over the neck of the animal, state of the same animal,

MARRIAGE BY IMITATION.

Philadlephia Wedding Where the Min ister Received No Fee. ister Received No Fee.

A curious sight was recently observed in a fashionable Philadelphia church. The occasion was the marriage of two prominent people by an equally prominent divine. During the progress of the ceremonies a mulatto boy and giri were noticed in a corner of the church, well screened behind a pillar.

As the bridegroom and bride went through the prescribed forms of the marriage service the two mulattoes did likewise. When the bridal pair knelt, they knelt, and when the ring was placed on the bride's finger, the mulatto boy passed a ring over the girl's finger in the instead of gold, and his bride was not so fair as the other, but he looked just as happy. When the service was over the dusky pair marched out of the church looking just as much married as the couple for whom the ceremony was held. They probably could not afford a marriage fee and in their simps way concluded that a marriage at second hand was just as bindered as the that had a service held in their

THREE GREAT MEN AND A HAM BONE.

Story of Gen. Grant, Lord John Bussell and Sir Richard Owen.

In the newly published life of Sir Richard Owen occurs the following:

A footman came over from Pembroke Lodge with a large bone wrapped up in paper and a note from Lord John Russell requesting Owen to let him know to what animal the bone belonged. The professor looked at it and at a glance perceived that it was a ham bone of an ordinary pig. The description was transferred to paper, and the footman returned to Pembroke Lodge, leaving Owen at a loss to understand why a ham bone should have been sent to him. Some days passed, and hearing nuthing further from Lord John, he walked over on a Sunday afternoon to ask for an explanation. 'The fact ig,' Lord John Russell said, 'President Grant made me a present of what purported to be a bear's hum (which is considered a great delicacy), but as I had my doubts about it, I sent you the bone."

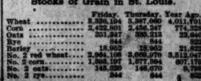

Children's Sayings.

The other dary Dorotny was very busy printing words on a sheet of paper in big, careful letters. Presently she took the paper to mamma in some perplexity, saying: "Shall I put a period right there, mamma, and drop my voice?"

A White Bainbow.

From Invention.

The appearance of a white rainbow as Aspatria on Jan. 5 last is recorded by Samuel Barber. The band was much broader than the ordinary bow, and the arc was formed in the upper intermediate cloud drift. White rainbows are of rare occurrence, and the state of the weather at the time, with hard frost and impending snow storms, is noteworthy.

and the old man had the instrument fast of the little white fang that hung down visible in his open mouth.

With a dextrous jerk the fang and the venom bag came out together unbroken, and after crushing the head of the serpent with his boot, he laid the trophy in the palm of his hand for me to look at.

Afterwards he showed me a little box with glass-stoppered vials laid in cotton, which the Chicago firm had also sent him. He told me that he was making a good deal more money by the snakes than he could get "outen" his crops.

relieved of my purse, containing about $\frac{70}{20}$. Ican not tell how it occurred. Probably it was stolen; but the loss of this amount upset me terribly, for I was working on a commission basis, and trade so far had been anything but good. I had left a sick wife at me desperate. I at once wrote to the firm

From All the Year Round.

D'Herbelot says: "Joseph est regarde comme le Harmes ou le Mercure d'Egypte," to him were ascribed most of what was wondrous in that most wondrous of all lands; "he taught the most profound sciences, especially geometry." From his early youth he had on his shoulder the mark of a star, significant perhaps of his famous vision, perhaps of the "light and leading" he was to afford to the Egyptians.

The Mohammedans say that when quite a youth Joseph was charged with theft, but the particulars vary, some saying that he was the victim of a loving trick played by his aunt, who, by accusing him of theft, contrived that he should remain under her control; others that, moved by righteous zeal, he stole and destroyed an idol of gold; others that the offense was almost a virtue, for the theft was that of some food to give to a poor man.

The Arabian commentators say that when Joseph was cast into the pit, he was stripped naked, but wore around his neck an amulet which had been placed there by his aunt. The angel Gabriel came to him, and, opening the amulet, drew out therefrom a robe of silk of Paradise—the very robe with which nearly 300 years before he had covered Abraham when cast by Nimrod into the furnace. It was Isaschar.

GET TOGETHER.

The indications at Jefferson City ar unmistakable that Filley is determined to defeat all election reform legislation The votes and speeches in the House are not a preparation for compromise They point to a rejection by the House of the Senate bill without recourse to a conference committee that might adjust the differences between the two

As the Post-Dispatch has pointed out there is an easy basis for a rational compromise between the advocates of the two bills. The difference between the two measures is not radical save on one point-the Recorder of Voters.

The Republicans demand the total tution of an Election Commission named by the Circuit Judges. But to this there is the valid objection against judges having anything to do with the administrative machinery of politics. The Democrats demand the retention of the Recorder of Voters with powers which make him the final arbiter in all disputes over election clerks and judges. To this there is the valid objection that there should be revision and supervision vital. If the Senate bill were changed so as to give the Circuit Judges the power to pass judicially and finally upon the Recorder's acts it would be in all respect an excellent measure—far better than the Filley bill which the House is urging

The two houses must make an honest effort to get together. Filley deluder himself if he thinks there is political ad vantage for the Republicans in the defeat of election reform legislation under pres ent conditions.

THURSTON.

In demanding the recall of Thurston the Minister of the alleged Hawaiiar Republic, Secretary Gresham has at last taken a step that was too long postponed. For months this upstart representative of a petty little oligarchy that is masquerading as a popular government has been treating the Secretary of State and the United States Government with studied and deliberate insolence. He has held back official dispatches from the State Department and given out their contents through the newspapers. He has spoken disrespectfully of the Admin istration in published interviews. He has lobbled with Senators and Congressmen to defeat and discredit the President's Hawaiian policy. He admitted to Secretary Gresham that his conduct was "undiplomatic" and then repeated the offenses. There can be little doubt that it was his deliberate purpose to provoke the Secretary into some public manifestation of displeasure while Congress was in session, so as to furnish fuel for the lames which the Hawaiian jingoes in the Senate and House were trying to fan into a confingration. It is no excuse for his conduct but rather an aggravation that he was knowingly the tool of the Hales, Chandlers. ### EXPOSED BY ITS PRIEND.

The local organ of the Edison Illumin ating Trust "whoops it up" editorially this morning for the so-called compronise bill. If the objectors, it says, find any flaws in it that have escaped the scrutiny of the three attorneys that reported the bill to the Council, they ould point them out."

In a news article on page 8 of the same sue of the corporation organ the commise bill is treated as a most ambigous and dangerous measure, which may nvolve the city in troublesome and costly aplications. Quoting the amendment lating to burying the wires, it says:

It is pointed out that this amendmen opens the way for the three electric light-ing companies, should they so desire, to practically control the building of conduits in the city of St. Louis, or, if not that, to ause no end of costly and disagreeable liti-cation. Those who have carefully studied it even go so far as to say that had it been framed solely for the purpose of mystifying, it could not have been more ably drawn.

As an especial point it will be noticed, so the critics say, that not a word is said of using the city conduit, if one is ever built. The entire amendment contemplates solely the construction of their own conduits by

But on the particular point of the nisconstruction of ordinances there is offered the valuable testimony of President McMath to the effect that the lawyers' construction of the clause of the original ordinance relating to the payment of 5 per cent of the gross receipts is wholly at variance with the intention of the framers of the ordinance. It was intended that only the revenue from city business should be exempt from taxation. From this statement the following inference is drawn:

If, as President McMath testified, the attorneys placed a different construction upon the one clause than that intended by its framers, what, ask the critics, will be the construction placed upon this last amendment to the compromise bill, which they say, is possible of many interpreta-

WHY DID THEY DO IT!

In his personal explanation of his at titude towards the Senate amendment of the anti-trust bill Representative Moran drives home the charge of the Post-Dispatch that the Senate majority, and especially St. Louis Senators, had sacrificed the interests of St. Louis and Kansas City at the dictation of the Insurance Trust.

Representative Moran disclaimed any responsibility for having, as the Post-Dispatch charged, thrown St. Louis and Kansas City to the wolves. He said that on the floor of the House he had fought to hold the entire State under the law and had refused to yield in conference until he ascertained that the fight was hopeless and the St. Louis representative on the Conference Committee insisted upon the exemption of their own city and abolishment of the office and the substi- | Kansas City from the operation of the

> The effect of the amendment insisted upon by St. Louis representatives is to ermit the Insurance Trust, which is curbed by the law in all other parts of the State, to wreak its will upon St. Louis and Kansas City where the opportunities for greed are greatest. We leave to the people of St. Louis to determine why their legislators turned them over to the mercy of this combine.

"FOR LEGISLATIVE PURPOSES."

General Attorney A. A. Hurd of the Santa Fe Railroad system has given a reporter of the Topeka Journal some interesting information on the subject of egislative passes—information of a kind usually kept locked up in the breasts of railroad officials. Mr. Hurd says that he has issued 4,999 passes since the Kansas Legislature con vened. These passes have been issued "on account of legislation." Each member of the Legislature was provided with a family pass for all the Santa Fe lines during the session and additional passes were issued for their friends, some of which, Mr. Hurd says, were offered for sale on the streets. When the company asked the reason for requests for extra passes the customary answer was 'legislative purposes." Mr. Hurd says that the number issued this session was about one-half the num ber issued last session and that here after the passes will be limited to members of the Legislature and their families. The only explanation of the refreshing frankness of Mr. Hurd on the delicate subject of legislative passes is that he was in a "happy mood" because "the Legislature was so nearly ended." It is a pity that this happy mood is not catching and does not extend to giving the names of the members who received passes for "legislative purposes." Attorney W. H. Phelps in a "happy mood" could give a most delightful interview on the subject of passes issued in Missouri for "legislative purposes." Frankness on his part at this time might carry consternation to the upright legislators of this commonwealth, but it would be "mighty interesting reading" to Mis-

STATE BLIND SCHOOL.

The action of the Missouri Senate in providing for a commission to relocate the Missouri Blind School with a view of removing the institution from St. erves to be severely and sharply criticised.

The Blind School is half a century old. It was established here by public-spirited citizens of St. Louis before there was even an asylum for the insane, or any State educational institution except the University, in the whole State of Missourl. It received steady support from d that Secretary | this city, and was maintained and nourion to the State. Since then, although it has devel Since then, although it has developed into one of the largest and most successful institutions of its kind in this country, its management has been so careful, economical and judicious, that no increase in the amount of State appropriation has been asked for in many years, and to-day it costs the tax-payers less than any other of their State institutions, with the possible exception of the tutions, with the possible exception of the young Normal School at Cape Girardeau. The retention of the Blind School in St. Louis secures for it a very superior faculty at trifling cost. The very best teachers, in every tine of education, devote certain hours each day to the unfortunate of that institution, accepting an amount of pay far below their power to command, largely because of a desire to e helpful.

Nowhere in Missouri can the Blind School be managed so successfully at such small cost, and the proposition to emove it from St. Louis is a species of demagogy which the tax-payers of the State should at once appreciate and condemn. It belongs here, and here it hould remain.

Senator Hill, points out that there are o-day in the State of New York 1,400 Republican postmasters, while New York Republicans are moving heaven and earth to oust Democratic office-holders. There can be no doubt that the Republican hunger is fierce and insatiable, and it is to be regretted that New York Democratic mismanagement should have given an opportunity for this deplorable exhibition of greed.

It is quite likely that the Republican eaders would be glad to get away from the silver question in the next presidential campaign and whoop up the Monroe doctrine. The Monroe doctrine, however, is the doctrine of all American parties, and the Democratic administration has the first call this time.

By the aid of the Republicans who have nigrated from the West and Northwest to the desirable farms of Missouri the dear gold and high tariff party hope to make a great showing in the elections. It is no time for Democratic legislators to obstruct in any way the progress of reform.

Senator Harrison of Phelps is paid by the people of Missouri, but he is rendering extremely valuable services to the telephone monopoly and to the lobby by pigeon-holing the bill reducing telehone rates which was passed by the House on March 1.

The drawers of fraudulent pensions will be delighted with the buncombe resolutions of the Illinois Republican Hous asking the passage of a bill to prevent the stopping of pensions now obtained No bounty-jumper could ask more. Senator Frye is not a sanguinary fight er. He kept Maine in the Union by staying at home during our civil war. In a war with Spain his most effective worl would be in cheering our troops and in spiring them from Washington.

If Mr. McKinley searches for health n the South in winter and in the Northeast in summer, the result may be the prostration of all the other fellows who want the nomination.

The ruling of the presiding officer of the Missouri House that the member who rises to a question of decency is not in order is a valuable Republican legislative precedent.

The disaster to Missouri Democrats of having the State Senate Democratic is about counterbalanced by the misfortune to the Republicans of having the Republican.

Evidently Japanese sentiment is against peace, and Japanese statesmen, if they are inclined to it, are not likely to have much support. Japan is drunk with The reform sentiment in the State of

New York is not shared by the Republican Legislature. That body seems to have been organized by the boodlers. If the cuckoos of the old Congress are to be succeeded by the Reed-birds of the new, we shall not make much ornithological progress during the session. If Spanish officers want targets they hould ask to be sent to Cuba. There is no glory for the Spanish arms in shooting at peaceful newspaper men. There are several variations in the Del-ware senatorial fight, but the Addicks men stick. They may never find a bet ter paymaster than Addicks.

State Legislators are like droves of nogs. Only by constant shouting and prodding can they be kept anywhere near the middle of the road.

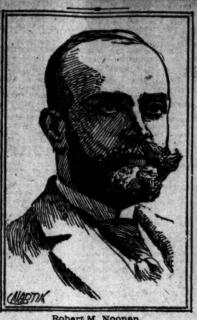

The Missouri applicants for Indian Ter ritory offices must content themselves for a while longer with being simply imperial Missourians.

One dollar a day is an extremely high price to pay for such work as is now being done by the Missouri Legislature. It looks as if nearly every resident of California has a Fair will somewher in his clothes.

The bounding Springer will now go to the Indian Territory and grow up with the country.

son. In bringing it up he pulled out, also, a little worn baby slipper. Sargeant McGrew asked what he carried that around for. That, he explained, was his "hoodoo charm," Elic has been accused of shooting craps, and your true colored crap shooter is invariably superstitious. A rabbit's foot, a dead man's linger, a rattlesnake's rattle, a peeled onion and a soore of other queer articles are relied on to cause the bones to show seven or eleven opportunity, or to drive away craps when "coming out for a point." The explanation therefore was not unreasonable, but there was something in his manner, which led Sergeant McGrew to question him further.

The colored crap shooter and the ward heeler are not given credit for fine feelings and depth of affection by those who presume that the cultivated enjoy a monopoly of that sort of thing, and the denouement of the owner of the shoe breaking down in tears would have surprised most people. The philosophic sergeant was not particularly surprised. He is a student of human nature, and had always maintained that Elic had latent good qualities under the surface. Elic was half ashamed of his tears and was forced to explain. He had been ashamed of the was half ashamed to tell the truth about it, because of the idiotic idea prevalent among men that it is manly to appear incapable of the softer emotions.

He therefore told a lie—one of those lies, which like Uncle Toby's one oath are obliterated by the Recording Angel with a tear. The truth was that the little shoe was once worn by his dead baby. He had carried it for six months. His wife carries the mate to it. And Secretary Saunders, who was a witness, now agrees with the bluff Sergeant that Elic has qualities in him he did not suspect before.

The Recorder of Voters.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

Much discussion has taken place and much thought has been given on the election laws pending in the Legislature at Jefferson City. The rank and file of all parties favors honest elections, without which a democratic form of government is a failure and honest, capable men will scarcely be induced to run for office under present conditions. If they don't stand in with the Recorder of Voters they are at a disadvantage at the primaries. The judges selected to represent them are the weakest of the men submitted to him, while their opponent gets the most unscrupulous. The location of polling places gives one an advantage over the other.

It was evening just before adjournment, the mouse leaders—Speaker Russell making the holion—agreed to have the first page of the amended bill printed so that it should appear to be what it was in fact, an amendment to House bill No. 75. The Democrats made no further effort to ferret out the person or persons who had tampered with the bill, but Secretary Roach and his subordinates deny that any of them made any change in the endorsement of the bill, or that it was done in the Senate.

The matter was allowed to drop, as there seemed to be no way of determining who is responsible for the forgery.

Conference Committee on the eleemosynary and penal appropriation bill has agreed and made its report as follows:

Senate increases incurred in—Fulton Asylum heater and laundry, $2,000; Nevada Asylum heater and laundry, $500; Deaf and Dumb Asylum, additional colored teacher, $700; deaf and dumb asylum insurance, $1,500; St. Louis Insane Asylum, from $20,000 to $40,000; new buildings at penitentiary, $60,000. The committee took of $7,000.

Senate increases receded from—Nevada Asylum, from $20,000 to $40,000, may buildings at penitentiary, $60,000. Senate increases receded from—Nevada Asylum, from $20,000 to $30,000. Senator Lancaster called four meetings on the St. Louis Insane Asylum item alone, and finally brought the recalcitrant Republican conferers around by telling them that they could make St. Louis Democratio by Just voting down this increase. That hint brought them around. The general result is a decided victory for the Senate Appropriations Committee.

The Conference Committee on the general appropriation bill has failed to agree and has voted to request a discharge. The subject on which the conference split irreconcilably was the university appropriation, and the largest item in dispute was that of $35,000 for a new medical building.

The House this morning agreed to conference report on the general apropriation bill as follows:

Reductions from Senate allowances—State militia support, $15,000; conveying troops to World's Fair, $3,501.19; printing report and School of Geology and Mines, $6,000; printing additional copies session acts, etc., $9,000.

etc., $5,000.
Increase from Senate advances—Expenses for new Circuit Judges in St. Louis, $12,000; repairs for State arms, $1,066.00; current expenses Governor's mansion, $7,000.
A new conference committee on the part of the House was appointed just before the noon adjournment. It consists of Messrs. Bittinger, Freeman and Anderson.

moted Slatin Bey to the rank of Pasha.

Slatin Pasha, before taking service under the Khedive of Egypt, was a colonel in the Austrian Army. He was Governor of Senaar when Khartoum fell and Gen. Gordon was killed and was made a prisoner shortly after that event. There are a large number of Europeans either captives or voluntary deserters from civilization in the wilds of Africa. The English explorer, Montagu Kerr, found a Portuguese living among the savages in the very heart of unexplored Africa, and according to Fr. Orhwalder, the priest who two years ago escaped from Omdurman, there are a number of Europeans with the Mahdists, including the exprussian Sergeant of Artillery, Klotz, and several Germans, Greeks, English and French, who have abjured Christianity, embraced the Mahdist form of Mahometism, and stand high in the confidence of the insurgent leader.

Of 280,000 bushels in the elevator probably 180,000 bushels was saved in such shape as to be available for some use. The price paid was $35,000 for the lot. It is understood that the successful bidders have already been offered a substantial advance over the price paid, by one of the unsuccessful bidders. The wheat will be shipped East, that is that not sold here. The Gratiot Street company have already been asked for terms for good sized lots by syndicates of farmers and feeders located at different points in the country who want the wheat to feed to live stock.

The City Counselor on the Scarlet District

On Monday the Post-Dispatch published an opinion of Assistant City Counselor an opinion of Assistant City Counselor Macklin to the effect that property-owners in the territory contiguous to the "scarlet" district that may be set apart by the Police Commissioners under the law just enacted could not sue the city for depreciation of rental. Mr. Macklin said there could be no recovery for damages unless there was a physical injury or an impediment in an easement right. City Counselor Marshall has returned to the city. He sustained Mr. Macklin's opinion, giving as additional reasons that the city cannot be sued under a State law nor the State under any circumstances. There is no legal redress on account of the failure of the State to execute ts laws.

HAVANA, March 22.—Hermice Leyva, who was sent to Cuba by the Autonomist party to study the situation, has arrived at Havana, and reports that the insurrection is more of a race war than a political revodution, more negroes being found in the camps of insurgents than whites. The insurgents were very poorly armed, and their stores of ammunition were scanty. The chief of the insurgents, Amador Guerra, with 300 mounted men, attacked the village of Camprehuela and created a great panic among the inhabitants. Numerous families escaped and took refuge on an American bark in the harbor.

A band of insurgents demanded the surrender of Lieut. Tarrago, who was stationed there with 40 men of the regiment of Havana. Tarrago was called upon to order the regiment to deliver up their arms. He refused, and the regiment declared they would rather die than surrender.

A party of insurgents, under the command of the brothers Rabis and Chiefs Lora and Urbino, after capturing Eaire, were valiantly attacked by Een Garrich and Cois. Santocildes and Zubikowsky. The insurgents offered a fierce resistance, but were finally driven out of Baire.

The insurgents were pursued into the mountains. There was also an encounter with a party of negroes, who were dispersed, many of them being wounded.

says: A gentleman at Mantanzas, Cuba, whose reliability as a business man is above question, has written the following letter on the Cuban rebellion:

"For three years past the planters, hitherto loyal, have been put to a severe test. Owing to the free sugar clause in the McKinley bill, there was a great boom in the sugar industry of Cuba. The planters not only largely increased their capacity, but invested to the extent of many millions in new mills and machinery. Then like a crash came the announced policy of the United States to cripple the very market upon which Cuba had built her hopes. Spain blundered in clumsy forms of retaliation, instead of having at heart the interests of those who had been so true to her heretofore. Last November the planters of Cuba held a meeting in Havana, at which they adopted a piteous appeal to the home government. Capt.-Gen. Callio promised to forward it with a personal indorsement. It is doubtful if he ever did so, but be that as it may the next thing the planters heard of it, in January, was an intimation that further meetings for any purpose whatever would be displeasing to the Government.

"Thus deprived of even the right of petition, the planters have been brooding at their homes, giving quiet aid and support to the rebels. I have been through a considerable part of the island, and everywhere their homes, giving quiet aid and support to the rebels. I have been through a considerable part of the island, and everywhere men are roving around in small groups, avoiding the military; but keeping them in constant pursuit, while the planters are non-committal, remaining just quiet enough to prevent confiscation. As soon as the troops leave any given point, it swarms again with the advocates of rebellion.

"The harmony between the planters and the discontented is plain to be seen, as is the fact that the traders have superior means of information.

"There is really no well formed attempt at mobilization as yet. The purpose of the fact that the traders have superior means of information.

"There is really no well formed attempt at mobilization as yet. The purpose of the rebels is to keep in small bands, to attract as little attention as possible and to avoid conflicts with the troops.

"This plan of having the whole island as a camp without any point of strategy for the Spaniards to attack, it is believed, will weary out the Spaniards, and by lengthening the period of disturbance will attract outside aid after a while. There is not a day but every Spanish garrison on the island is rushed out on a wild goose chase after an enemy that dissolves into nothing and escapes."

TALE OF TREACHERY.

Claim That Sanguilly Is in the Pay the Spaniards.

TAMPA, Fla., March 22.—Incoming pasengers by the latest boat from Havana re port that the sympathizers with the Cuban rebellion who were arrested dur-ing the disturbances, have been released by the Government from Havans prisons. They are watched, it is believed, and should they are watched, it is believed, and should they be re-arrested they will be confined at Matanzas. This release is believed to clear the prisons of Havana, so no evidence of rebellion shall be observed by visitors. It has transpired, according to the latest information from Havana, that Gen. Sanguilly was not only the apostle of the revolutionist propaganda for the Havana department, but when the uprising came he was relied on to isad the forces of insurrection on the field. Being a veteran of the revolution of 1888, the insurrectionists trusted and revered him. Confidence in him was absolute.

trusted and-revered him. Confidence in him was absolute.

The statement now comes from a passenger just arrived that the insurrectionists have discovered that Gen. Sanguilly for about eight years past has been receiving 500 per month from the Spanish Government to keep it advised of any plote against the Government by the Cubans. It is also said that Garcia, soon before his death, early this month, offered Gen. Marti, the head of the revolution. 155,000. Gen. Marti, it is said, refused. Garcia subsequently gave the money to Gen. Sanguilly for the same purpose. Soon afterwards Garcia was killed, and the rebels, it is asserted, believe that Sanguilly kept or turned over to the Spanish Govarnment this and other moneys collected by him. The insurrectionists interested are now determined that if Sanguilly is released his life shall pay the forfeit of what they deem to be his treachery to their cause. cat of what they deem to be his treachery of their cause.

Bearing upon the above, and yet freshly neependant of it, there came here last vening from Cuba information that the spanish Government intended to send Generally as an exile prisoner. The insurectionists claim to have learned, however, hat it is the plan of the Government to end Gen. Sanguilly to the Phillippine slands to lead the Government forces gainst the uprising now in progress there may that he has been given $10.00 for so doSpanish arms manufacturing coracted with the Cuban Govern the alleger fact that only seventy-five guns ere found. The surrounding facts were not liven and it now transpires that there were or rifes found of the 10.00 stored.

It is stated by the arrivals here last night hat 5.50 soldiers from Spain arrived in savana by man-of-war Wednesday of this sek. They are said to be largely youths om it years of age upwards. From East-in Cuba, the disturbed district, came reports that Henry Brooks is in charge of bout 4.000 mgn at or about Baire, Gen, acceo has forces about Baylo, Gen, Joser is said to be near Puerto Principe or nizing forces. Gen. Masso, who went om Santiago, is reported to have fought anish troops near Manzanillo on the 17th March with reported loss to the Spandred and unknown loss to Cubans.

THE SPANISH MINISTER.

His Resignation Sent to Madrid, but Not

WASHINGTON, March 22.-Senor Muruaga admits that he offered his resignation to the Spanish Government, but declines to scuss the matter. The Minister tendered his resignation,

The Minister tendered his resignation, it is said, because of the unfriendly expressions in the American newspapers concerning himself and his country, and also for the reason that the Captain General of Cuba, who is to a certain extent under his official direction, disregarded certain instructions forwarded to Havana from the Spanish Legation at Washington.

In reply to his cablegram, the Spanish Minister for Foreign Affairs assured Senor Muruaga that the Government was well pleased with his conduct of affairs in Washington, and would for that reason have to refuse to relieve him.

But it is said to-day that Muruaga's recall has been requested by Secretary Gresham. The Spanish Minister's offense is the extreme freedom with which he spoke of Secretary Gresham's course in regard to the Allianca.

CHICAGO, Ill., March 21.—Chief of Police Brennan, in his annual report, declares the Debs strike an unimportant affair. According to Chief Brennan the most annoying ing to Chief Brennan the most annoying element consisted of half-grown boys who were determined to do mischief. In all cases where the police were left to themselves peace was preserved, and the interference with non-union workmen was trining."

The report severely denounces the conduct of the Deputy United States Marshals, who are declared to have been hastily gathered largely from the scum and refuse of the lowest class of the poplation.

Allison is not an impossibility, and while there is every logical reason to believe that the nomination will go West and may strike Indiana, the Doughty Bob says lightning will strike West of Illinois. McKinley is will strike west of fillinois. Mcklinley is the present ideal, but ideals are easily spotted. He says Reed will not figure prominently in the convention, and that the temperance question will be a factor in the campaign, but not as a third party issue. Col. Ingersoll says he will take no active part in future campaigns.

THE ATTEMPT PAILED.

Though Frightened, Hunt Denied Having Lynched Mrs. Holten.

OMAHA, Neb., March 22 .- A special to the Bee from Springfield, Neb., says: An at-tempt was made yesterday at the Holten tempt was made yesterday at the Holten ranch to force a confession from the man Hunt who is under arrest for the lynching of Mrs. Holten. While the preliminary hearing of Hunt and Miller was in progress County Attorney Lear took Hunt into a room, apparently for private conference. Just after they had entered the room there were a dozen revolver shots heard outside, mingled with shouts and curses. Lear jumped and ran, locking the door of the room and leaving Hunt alone. In a moment Lear returned and announced that the vigilants had come and had killed Miller, and that they were now hunting for Hunt to kill him. Hunt was almost frightened to death, but the expected confession was not forthcoming. He swore that if the vigilantes had killed Miller they had slain an innocent man, as Miller had nothing to do with the lynching of Mrs. Holten. The officers are not satisfied that they have the right men and are still on the hunt for the murderers.

Silver Men Making Ready for a National Campaign.

AN AGGRESSIVE MOVEMENT

Boast That the Alleghenies Will Be the Political Divide in the Presidential Year.

CHICAGO, Ill., March 22.-The Record ays: Chicago is to be the national politi-al center next year, and silver will be the dominant issue in the presidential campaign.
This statement was made by a man who is recognized as a leading factor of the silver propagands, and it was conceded by a numper of conservative local financial men to be the only logical conclusion which co drawn from a series of recent events. A drawn from a series of recent events. A plan of campaign has been laid out which will bring leaders of the silver propaganda from Denver to Chicago, and already the boast is made that "silver will split the Republican and Democratic parties, and that the Allegheny Mountains next year will be the great divide which will separate the yellow Atlantic coast from the white Mississippi Valley and Pacific."

This plan contemplates an arbitrary demand on the national conventions, for it is said that the silver men of both parties have arrived at a perfect understanding in the matter, and that a plank for free silver saut that the silver men of both parties have arrived at a perfect understanding in the matter, and that a plank for free silver coinage at the ratio of 16 to 1, independent of other comercial nations, "must be placed in the platforms of me respective parties."

According to this plan, should either or both conventions refuse to be dictated to by the aggressive silverites, the silver delegates will withdraw and an independent silver party will be formed with its head-quarters in Chicago.

The first choice for leader of this political enterprise is Congressman J. C. Sibley of Pennsylvania, a Democrat. Second choice falls upon R. P. Bland of Missouri, Democrat; W. J. Bryan of Nebraska, Democrat; Senator Teller of Colorado, Republican, and Senator Jones of Nevada, Republican, and Senator granted by the cilican and granted grant can, and Senator Jones of Nevada, Republican.

It is taken for granted by the silver men that organized labor and the People's party will continue with them to form the silver party, and they have expressed a willingness to accept governmental control of transportation provided that this modification of plank 10 is made a subordinate issue to free silver.

An organized movement for the purpose of sending silver delegates to the Democrat National Convention is well under way in the Northwestern States, and is paralleled by a similar movement on the part of the silver Republicans. The progress of this preparatory work has arrived at the tangible degree, and the various State committees of both parties are beginning to watch it closely.

JUDGE MONTGOMERY'S VIEWS.

He Thinks the Republicans Will Attempt Little Tariff Legislation.

WASHINGTON, March 22—Judge A. B. Montgomery of the Fourth Kentucky District, a member of the Committee on Ways and Means, and one of the three men who, on the part of the House, conducted the conference with the Senate on the tariff bill during the long session of the last Congress, expressed the opinion to-day that the Republicans would attempt very little if any tariff legislation during the next Congress.

the Republicans would attempt very little if any tariff legislation during the next Congress.

"They are," he said, "already making the plea that they won't have a majority in the Senate, evidently for the purpose of excusing themselves to their constituents. All the signs indeed indicate that the greater part of the time will be taken up with criticisms of the work of the Congress which has just closed, without seriously attempting any improvement, and possibly with getting through some makeshift on the financial question. The chances are good, however, that they will find themselves as incapable of reaching an agreement on silver as we were. Of course they will have such a large majority in the House that they may get something through that body, but they will not succeed in the Senate. In that respect also the Republicans will probably be as we were We got everything through the House that we tried to get through until after the November election demoralized us, but we found our difficulty with the Senate. We were unable to do much in that body because there was never a tariff reform majority in the Senate."

When asked if he thought the Democrate, when they should return to power, would attempt to correct the tariff law to correspond with the ideas advanced by the House in the supplementary tariff bills, he replied in the approximative, and added that there were also other changes than those which should in the affirmative, and added that there were

VERY IRREGULAR MEAT CONTRACTS.

Information Tipped to the Combine in Advance.

SOME METHODS EMPLOYED.

Incidents in the Supplies Office Showing How Strong a Pull the Contractors' Ring Has.

Day by day additional evidence of gross irregularities in connection with the con-tracts for furnishing meats and supplies to the city institutions are being brought to tht. The Board of Charity Commission ers, particularly Mr. H. C. Grenner, who always been active in the exposure an correction of irregularities wherever found is giving the matter considerable attention

The latest development casts a shadow over the threshold of the office of the Commissioner of Supplies, which it will require a great deal of the light of day to dispel. Before the last contracts were let every man, woman and child who applied at the imply Commissioner's office for blank orms of contracts was compelled to state or whom the blanks were wanted. In ther words, certain attaches of the office at themselves in a position to know just hoe each and every bidder would very kely be. If the applicant refused to tell or whom the blanks were wanted no blanks ere furnished.

who each and every bidder would very likely be. If the applicant refused to tell for whom the blanks were wanted no blanks were furnished.

By means of this plan the Supply Commissioner, or one or more of his attaches, was able to know the name of every one who called for blanks, and, had such been a desirability, the Commissioner and his employes could easily have tipped to their friends knowledge, from the prospective number of competitors, of about how high or how low bidders should place their figures on city contracts. When blanks were given out the name of the person or firm for whom they were to be used was written down. The Commissioner of Supplies is not supposed to be an interested party in the letting of any contract, beyond taking care of the city's interests. He has no legitimate use for the names of prospective bidders on meat or any other contracts, and has no legal right to enforce a demand for the name of the person expecting to bid. Why it has been done is one of the unsolved mysteries of that mysterious place.

But the most singular feature of these transactions remains to be told. The name of one applicant desiring blanks was demanded, just before the last meat contracts were let, and an evasive answer given. The clerk repeated his question until the name of Nelson Morris & Co. was given. Then followed the most peculiar phase of the whole business. The clerk took an envelope and wrote the date and the words "for Nelson Morris & Co." on the back. He-filled in every line of the contractors ring, was placed wholly at the mercy of this attache of the office of Commissioner of Supplies. All the writing on the envelope was in his hand and, had he desired to open it and examine the bid inclosed, there was nothing to prevent and no way in which he could have been alsovered. It would have been a very easy matter to read or copy the figures of the bidder, place the bid in another envelope and address it as he did the first.

The question now being asked is, why such manifest interest so bid on the fur at heart would be wining to take a risk?

In direct connection with these facts, and, perhaps, a sequel to them, comes the infermation that at least one member of the contractors' ring had information that Nelson. Morris had taken out blanks and would be a bidder. Some one in the Supply Commissioner's office informed Thomas Stringer that Morris' agent had taken out blanks three days before the bids were opened. The names of other bidders were also supplied to members of the ring from Commissioner Gilbert's office. The ringsters were thus kept posted at all times Commissioner Gilbert's office. The fing-sters were thus kept posted at all times and were able to put in low bids when they had competition and very high bids when they had a clear field. In other words, the tactice pursued by attaches of Commission-er Gilbert's office, instead of protecting the city's interests, placed the ringsters in a position to know best how the city could be they had a clear field. In other words, the tactice pursued by attaches of Commissioner Gilbert's office, instead of protecting the city's interests, placed the ringsters in a position to know best how the city could be wolfed on the contracts.

**EX-CLERK CONNORS TALKS.**

No better authority that members of the ring have a "stand-in" in that office is there than Mr. Thomas W. Connors, ex-assistant book-keeper for Commissioner Gilbert. In conversation with a Post-Dispatch reporter than Mr. Thomas W. Connors, ex-assistant book-keeper for Commissioner Gilbert. In conversation with a Post-Dispatch reporter had always been shown more courtesy than the rest. This bears out the statement of J. W. Allaway, agent for Armour & Co., that the ring contractors have such a "cinch" on things at the City Hall that it would not pay him to bid, although he represents one of the largest meat firms in the United States, which has ten times the facilities and backing of all the members of the contractors' clique put together.

Mr. Connors was asked how the ringsters happen to have such a pull in the Supply Commissioner's office. He said that two or three of them are old friends of persons in the office, and the latter always tip their friends on the way the thing looks. One of the clerks, he said, keeps tab on the number and names of the bidders and puts his friends on to what they may expect. It has always been a rule for the ring contractors to bid low, he said, if certain other parties are going to bid. Mr. Connors was employed in the office for several years and is well posted on the affairs of the office.

He stated that James Quinlan generally secured the contract for furnishing the jail, Work-house, House of Refuge, Quarantine Hospital and City Hospital, and Maurice Prendeville the Insane Asylum, Female Hospital and City Hospital, and Maurice Prendeville the Insane Asylum, Female Hospital and City Hospital, and Maurice Prendeville the Insane Asylum, Female Hospital and City Hospital, and Maurice Prendeville the Insane Asyl out optics, has excited universal sympathy. The city has money to throw away, but it failed to make an appropriation for spectacles, and the public charges could look for no help from that direction.

Kind hearted citizens who have laid aside many pairs of spectacles and eye-glasses, have gathered them together and sent them to the Post-Dispatch. A dozen pair of spectacles and four pairs of eye-glasses were received Friday, and like previous gifts of the same kind were sent to Health Commissioner Homan. Dr. Homan will deliver them to the Poor-house physician, who will test the eyes of his aged charges and give them suitable aids to their vision.

H On the death of Mr. Hayden he removed to Columbus, where he was soon recognized as one of the leading business men. He never took part in St. Louis politics, and in accepting the honor thrust upon him by the merchants of Columbus he does so in a characteristic way, and only pledges them to give the city, if elected, a clean business administration. He promises to fight ring rule and all kinds of political corruption.

The high respect and esteem in which he is held here seems to be equally shared by his Columbus friends, who have chosen him as their standard bearer in their vigorous fight against municipal misrule.

Ray, who lives at the above number, went home yesterday afternoon and found Dyer in company with Mrs. Ray. He called him out of the house and a fight ensued, in which Dyer was cut six times with a knife. The abdominal cavity was penetrated. Ray makes no excuse for his actions, claiming that his wife had played him false and he had warned Dyer to keep away from his home. Dyer has no occupation and his reputation is not very good.

The Sabbath Association met yesterday afternoon and received communications from a number of barbers interested in having shops closed on Sunday. They asked the association to aid them in enforcing the law. The cases against the men for whom warrants have already been procured are docketed for next week. The proposed compromise offered by the saloon men to close in the forenoon was not discussed. The probabilities are that it will not be accepted.

CONSUMPTION GERMS.

The City Chemist Making Preparation for Detecting Them.

r step was taken by the Board o Health Thursday afternoon toward inaugu mption germs. Superintendents of city institutions will be required to report cases coming under their observation just as they do other contagious diseases. Dr. Teichmann, the City Chemist, sent in a requisition for the articles he will require in making the examination of sputum ordered by the board at a previous meeting. A large number of air-tight bottles will be kept by Dr. Teichmann to be given to physicians on demand. The sputum will be preserved in one of these bottles to be examined by the city bacteriologist, Mr. Buckland, under the microscope. Prof. Ravold, the consulting bacteriologist, advised that culture of the germ would, in the majority of cases, be unnecessary. The tuberculosis bacillus is easily recognizable under the microscope by its form and behavior under certain chemical reagents. Owing to the swift progress of diphtheria, the earliest possible determination of the character of the disease, where diphtheria is suspected, is imperative, hence culture tubes are brought in use to develop the germs more rapidly. The test for diphtheria is also made with the microscope.

HONESTY TO ALL

Payment of Living Wages Not the Only Object Sought.

M'CLURE'S VEILED THREATS

Italian Laborers Swear to the Truth o the Allegations of Reduced Wages and Gifts to the Superintendent.

One point has been won in the fight for honest street-cleaning. The contractors have notified their employes that hereafter laborers will be paid $1.50 per day. But this is not all. The padrone system must go. The retained percentage on contracts must be covered to its legitimate use, not diverted to the personal benefit of the contractor already unrighteously enriched by ill-gotten public funds.

funds. after they will be paid the legal rate of wages is not all the Post-Dispatch has been fighting for. Honesty to the city as well as to the employe must be enforced. Nor will to the employe must be enforced. Nor will the payment of unscrupulous superin-tendents by the poor laborers be permitted. Neither can the contractors, leagued with crooked inspectors, neglect the streets, yet of draw pay for work as done. Work coming all under machine sweeping contracts must be done under such contracts, not left for day laborers to complete.

done under such contracts, not left for day laborers to complete. The wolfing of employes out of even a part of their honestly earned pittance of $1 per day is, perhaps, the most disgraceful feature of the whole affair. It is a feature, too, which those most concerned decline to discuss in any detail.

McClures's VEILED THREATS.

A reporter for the Post-Dispatch, in pursuit of information upon this point, found Mueller. Theodore Gast and Tom McClure at Mueller's Chestnut street stable. McClure was asked what he had to say in answer to the charge that he had been wolfing the street-cleaners in his employ by making them pay for their positions and compelling them to trade at the Pfeifers' stores. McClure smiled blandly and said: "I shall have something to say when the affidavit-makers are through. There is no truth in these stories. It is the Italians who charge all this, is it not:"

Italians are, as is well-known, the usual are through. There is no truth in these stories. It is the Italians who charge all this, is it not?"

Italians are, as is well-known, the usual material upon which padrones rely.

McClure was asked what conceivable motive could inspire so many men to charge him falsely. He only answered that he would have his say later.

"What wages are you paying, Mr. Muel-ler?" the reporter asked after McClure had driven away.

"I have been paying day men $1," he enswared frankly. "I don't know what I'm paying now. The last pay day was March 7. I paid $1 per day then."

"That was for work under the new contract?"

"That was for work under the new contract?"

"For work under both the new and the old contracts. The next pay day will be Saturday. I have not yet decided what to pay."

Mueller's frank acknowledgment of what the Post-Dispatch had indisputably proven—that he has been robbing the city and his employee of over 50 cents a day for each man employed on day work—compares favorably with his former statements upon this subject. When the amount of evidence was small Mueller replied to a question as to what they are worth. Some of my men get $2.56 a day."

what they are worth. Some of my men get $2.50 a day."

LAST SUMMER'S PADRONE STORY. The story that Mueller and Gast agreed to retain McClure because McClure had threatened to implicate Henry Mueller, Jr., in the charge of working a padrone system was called to Mueller's attention.

"It is not true," Mueller answered. "Gast and I investigated that padrone charge and found there was nothing in it."

"How do you account for the fact, then, that so many litalians are employed and that they are replaced by new recruits so frequently? One would not think that McClure of your son would be partial to the sons of Italy."

"They are more willing to work in all

Mueller said, but he could not reconcer when.

If he had wanted to prove that the reducwhen.

If he had wanted to prove that the reduction was made before McClure was charged with compelling his employes to divide with him their meager earnings, he could easily have done so by showing his pay-roils.

Mueller was asked how he came to make the reduction, and whether he believed the contract allowed him to rate his men at $1.65 a day at the City Treasury, and at something less than $1, the cost of tools counted out, at his office. Mueller smiled knowingly, seeming to say he believed in getting everything in sight, and said:

"I bought two new piling machines and was about to discharge my night men. They came to me and said they would work for $1 instead of $1.25 if I would put those machines away. I agreed to do this."

"And that gave you authority and excuse for cutting day men also down to $12."

"Well, many of the men work in both the day and night gangs; sometimes in one and sometimes in the other. I couldn't see why a man should be paid $1.50 for day work and only $1 for night work."

Mueller's logic is beautiful. If he had been as nice in his dealings with the city and his men as he is in his reasoning there would have been no complaint against him.

A FEW AFFIDAVITS.

CASKS OF LIQUOR SIEZED.

Columbia Distilling Co. in Trouble With the Revenue Officers.

The Columbian Distilling Co., at 513 Walnut street, is in trouble with the United States Internal Revenue officers. It is accused of violating sec. 3,289 of the revenu regulations, which reads as follows:

regulations, which reads as follows:

All distilled spirits found in any cask or package containing five gallons or more, without having thereon each mark and stamp required therefor by law, shall be forfeited to the United States.

A few days ago a deputy revenue collector seized two casks containing about 140 gallons of whisky in the Columbia company's cellar on the ground that the casks were not stamped. The offense is a technical one. The liquor seized is said to be worth 3200, and the company has made an offer to compromise, which is pending with the Commissioner of Internal Revenue at Washington, D. C. Revenue collectors have no authority to compromise penalties, but the Revenue Commissioner usually acts according to the recommendation of the collectors. What overture for compromise the Columbia company has made could not be learned.

It is understood that the stamped casks of the company were leaking, and it is alleged that the officers, without having two unstamped casks registered, had the liquor transferred to them until the leaks could be mended.

mended.

Meanwhile the revenue deputy called and the seizure followed. Henry Weyl, President of the company, was not at the store when a reporter called, he having started early con his daily canvass for trade.

The tax has been paid on the liquor seized, but the Government is very severe in its regulations, and hence the seizure. The seized liquor was not removed or put under guard by the revenue officers, but the casks were sealed.

LEFT DESTITUTE.

The Families of the Red Canyon Mine Victims.

SALT LAKE, Utah, March 21.-A specia Ever since the explosion at Red Canyon mine, work has progressed steadily, gaining Ever since the explosion at Red Canyon mine, work has progressed steadily, galning access to the mine, bringing out dead, and caring for the bereaved families. Not one in the mine at the time of the explosion escaped, all being instantly killed. There may be more than sixty killed, but that is the number shown after carefully checking the roll. Of those who were injured around the mine, Dr. Gamble, the resident mine physician, has about twenty-five under treatment. This morning David G. Thomas, State Mine Inspector, arrived, and will remain until all bodies are recovered, and will thoroughly inspect the mine. He says he considered this the best ventilated and safest mine in the State, it being free from gas and having plenty of safety appliances.

All agree that the cause of the explosion was a miner putting in a large charge of powder to throw down a big amount of coal for the next morning. This charge set fire to what is known as dust explosion. This dust is of minute particles of coal mixed with air, and made the dangerous compound which caused the destruction of property and carried se many men to instant death. The work of bringing out the dead is necessarily slow. Some of the bodies were partly covered with the caves, hence requiring search to find them, but most of them lay fully exposed.

W. J. Cassin, the Coroner of Ulntah County, impaneled a jury which reviewed the remains brought out, identified them, and permitted relatives to take possession of the bodies for burial. Sait Lake and Omaha were telegraphed for coffins, and the burial of the victims will occur as soon as possible.

The distress of the bereaved calls loudly for aid. Of the fifty-one women who have been bereft of protection and support of husband, they with their families probably make a total of 300 persons fully worthy of the deepest sympathy.

MILK PROM DISEASED COWS.

San Franciscans at the Mercy of a Mer cenary Man. SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., March 22.-E. ery cow of a herd of eleven at the State University dairy on the outskirts of the city University dairy on the outskirts of the city has been condemned by the inspector of the Board of Health, who has ordered the animals killed on account of tuberculosis. All the cows had the disease in an advanced stage, and the proprietor admitted he had been serving customers with the milk, although he knew the cows were diseased. He had bought some of the cows for 35 each. In extenuation, he pleaded that he had to support his family, but afterwards admitted that he owned considerable city property and is far from being a poor man. The authorities will probably arrest him on a criminal charge.

WILL SHUT IT OUT.

Minnesota's Bill to Tax Dressed Meat From Other States.

ST. PAUL, Minn., March 22.-A bill designed to prevent the bringing of dressed meats to Minnesota from outside States has been introduced in the Senate in the guise been introduced in the Senate in the guise of a bill in the interest of the public health. Sheep on the hoof are to be inspected at ½ cent, hogs at 1 cent and cattle at 5 cents. For inspection of slaughtered cattle the fee is 25 cents for each carcass or part thereof, and 10 cents for hogs and sheep. The words "or any part thereof" bars out dressed meat from abroad, as they come in pieces. Speaking of the situation, a representative of one of the large Chicago concerns said: "Under that ruling, every side of bacon shipped into any city of 20,000 inhabitants or more would have to be inspected and would be taxed 10 cents, and if re-shipped from either of the twin cities to another city would have to be inspected with another charge."

Both Kansas City and Chicago men are here, it is said, to prevent the passage of the bill if possible.

CHAIR OF EGYPTOLOGY.

Mr. Bradsted Will Soon Occupy It at the Chicago University.

NEW YORK, March 22-Mr. James H. NEW YORK, March 22.—Mr. James H. Bradsted, who is to fill the newly established chair of Egyptology at the Chicago University, was a passenger on the North German Lloyd steamship Lahn. In company with his wife he left Bremen on March 12, after an absence from this country of three years. This time has been spent in special study for his new work. He is a graduate of the Northwestern University, and was selected for the new chair by the trustees of the Chicago University be ause of the great interest he has taken in the subject for a number of years.

TURF CONGRESS.

Change Will Be Proposed at the Next Meeting.

REDUCE THE WEIGHT LIMIT.

Horsemen Claim That the Minimum Weight of 100 Pounds for 3-Year-Olds in Selling Races Is Unjust.

At the next meeting of the Western Turf Congress, which takes place at Cincinnati April 2, it is understood that the Owners' and Trainers' Association will submit a request for the abolishment of the rule making the minimum weight in selling races 100 pounds. This rule reads as follows:

"In overnight events, such as handicaps, selling and conditioned races, the ininimum weight for 3-year-olds and upward shall be 100 pounds. In races exclusively for 3-year-olds selling and constanted races, the minimum weight for 3-year-olds and upward shall be 100 pounds. In races exclusively for 3-year-olds 105 pounds, and in races exclusively for 3-year-olds 105 pounds."

It is claimed that a great injustice is done the 3-year-old division by this rule. The best a 3-year-old can get in the way of a weight allowance is six pounds, while 4 and 5-year-olds and upward get all the way from twenty to twenty-five pounds allowance. This is wrong. A well-known horseman, talking about the matter, said:
"I would like to see the minimum weight fixed at 30 pounds. Then the 3-year-olds would be put on a more equitable basis than they are under the present rules. I don't want too many lightweight races, because the small weights will keep the good boys on the ground, and I want to see the rule changed so that associations, when they so desire, can make overnight races for lightweights. About one race of this kind on a card of six races would be about the right proportion."

BOY'S REVERSAL.

His Performance Yesterday Pisces Him

on a Footing With Eli. Another exhibition of inconsistent pe forming was given at East St. Louis yesterday, when Roy captured the fourth race from a field which included Pat Tucker and Caesar. Considering the fact that Caesar had easily beaten Roy a few days previous the latter's acrobatic feat entitles him to the honors with Ed Trotter's Ell. Pat Tucker is one of the fastest horses at the track, but he never got to the front at any stage of the route yesterday. Van Camp rode him. Perhaps he pulled the wool over Judge Sinclair's eyes with his usual defenses of riding to order. No one doubts Capt. Sinclair's integrity, but his failure to see a whole lot of things is not doing justice to the patrons of his track. Such glowing reversals of form, as have been permited to go by without a word from him are anything but relished by the public.

DAN DEFEATED ALSO.

Choyneki Had Creedon at His Mercy and Clearly Outclassed Him.

Dan Creedon was clearly outclessed in his fight with Joe Choynski in Chicago last night, and after the first round was not able to do anything at all with his opponent. In the beginning both men did some pretty clever work, and Creedon rushed Choynski to the ropes and got in a few blows, but neither was effective. From that time on Joe had the St. Louis man at his mercy and punched him whenever he wanted to. One of Dan's eyes was nearly closed in the second, and he bled profusely.

In the fifth and sixth rounds Dan was knocked down and was very weary when the gong rang and no decision made, according to the agreement.

The evident defeat of both Creedon and Tracey was a disappointment to the St. Louis sports, who expected better work from the men.

LUTTBEG AND REAKES.

They Will Wrestle in Cincinnati April 4 for $250 a Side.

Max Luttbeg has forwarded his forfelt of $100 to Cincinnati to meet Robert Reakes three rounds, catch-as-catch-can, at the People's Theater, in Cincinnati, April 4 People's Theater, in Cincinnati, April 4. The following are the articles of agreement: Articles of agreement entered into by and between Max Luttbey of St. Louis, party of the first part, and Robert Reakes, party of the second part, call for a catch-as-catch-can wrestling match, best two out of three falls. No locks or holds barred. Weights to be 140 pounds or under at the time of going on the mat on the night of the match. Match to be for two hundred and fifty dollars (350) as side, the 140-pound championship of the world and the gate receipts. The first deposit of $50 has been deposited with Harry M. Bootland Has Followed the American Plan of Cycle Races.

The adoption of the two-class racing rules by the Scottish Cyclists' Union, the determination of the Canadian Wheelmen's Association to adopt classes A and B at its annual reeting next month and the announcement that the racing system now in vogue by the League of American Wheelmen is under consideration for adoption by the cycling legislators in Germany is regarded by the officials of the League of American Wheelmen as an indication that the cycling bodies throughout the world will adopt the two-class rule eventually.

In England the National Cyclists' Union as stubbornly refused to adopt the classification system, and as a result, the racing element is in great disorder. The trial given by the League of American Wheelmen to the class system last year proved highly satisfactory, while cycling bodies in other countries were annoyed by the vexing amateur question.

AFRAID OF THE ELEVATOR. Party of Osage Braves Look Askance at Boy in Charge.

A party of six full-blooded Osage Indians arrived at the Union Station Friday morning, where they waited for a train to carry them to their homes in the Territory. The them to their homes in the Territory. The party has been in Washington five weeks on the business of their tribe.

While being shown through the station they expressed a desire to ride in the elevator. The six made a pretty heavy load. The trip up was made all right, but when they started down the party had been increased by several curious porters and newsboys, and the elevator shot down like lightning. The braves were too astonished to yell, but when they got to the bottom they crowded out, and moving away from the machine, talked excitedly in their own tongue and pointed to the elevator boy as though he had tried to kill them.

The names of the Indians were James and Peter Big Heart, Black Dog, Clarmo, White Horn and Edward Penn. The party left on the 9 o'clock Wabash train.

Mr. and Mrs. August Grau Want War-

Mr. and Mrs. August Grau of 1819 Sc plained to Assistant Prosecuting Attorney Johnson that about 6 p. m. yesterday when Mrs. Grau descended to the celiar of her home to get some canned fruit she was astonished to find Fischer there. Fischer, they said, immediately began to upbraid Mrs. Grau for saying that his wife stole potatoes from her (Mrs. Grau's) cellar. Mrs. Grau denied ever having made any such aliusions to Mrs. Fischer, whoeupon, she avers, Fischer caught hold of her, hit her on the breast, slapped her face and said he would kill her. Just then Mr. Grau appeared and rushed at Fischer, when Mrs. Fischer also opportunely arrived and rushed between the combatants: As no blood was spilled, Mr. and Mrs. Grau were told to seek a Police Court summons. plained to Assistant Prosecuting Attorney

St. Louisans will remember Rosa Sonneschein. She was formerly a resident of this city, and was favorably known in both social and literary circles. Her magazine will enter an entirely new field, being devoted exclusively to the interests of the American Jewess.

It is tastefully gotten up, and among the contributors in the first number are Rosa Sonneschein, Emil G. Hirsch, Louise Mannheimer, Rev. Dr. Adolph Moses, Kate Chopin, Ruth Ward Kahn and Julius Wise. WESTERN PREIGHT ASSOCIATION.

It Adjourns Because Rates Have Not Been Fixed From Lake Points. ST. PAUL, Minn., March 22.—The West-ern Freight Association has adjourned for ern Freight Association has adjourned for a week. The reason nothing can be done now, as explained by Chairman Midgley, is that rates have not been fixed from Lake points, on which St. Paul lines have to base by adding their charges. Speaking of the probable lake and rail East-bound rates, he said: "I think they will open at 15 cents from Chicago and Milwaukee to New York. This means 17% cents from Duluth and presumably 22% from St. Paul and Minneapolis, as it is improbable that they will go back to the 7% differential, much as the Chicago lines would like it."

Enjoined from Building.

GUTHRIE, O. T., March 22.—In the United States Court a decision has been rendered enjoining the Choctaw, Oklahoma & Guif Railway from building through the Kickapoo Indian Reservation, which contains 600,000 acres and is the most valuable in Oklahoma, until Secretary Smith gives his consent, which is equal to a permanent injunction. President Gowan of Philadelphia, Director McCloud and several Eastern attorneys are here and will fight the case.

Systems Expected.

FOR SAFETY OF THE PUBLIC.

Important Session at Which Matters of Vital Interest to Travelers Will Be Discussed and Decided.

Although the gentlemen who will be in attendance upon the session as representa-tives of all the important railroads of the country are not coming for their own amusement, and will be full of business during their stay, the St. Louis committee clubs, pernaps an evening at the theater, these, according to Mr. George E. Leighton of the Committee on Arrangements, will probably constitute the social features of their stay.

Chairman Ramsey of the Committee on Arrangements is now in communication with President H. S. Haines of New York, who represents the Plant System, of which he is vice president relative to the number of members who will be present and other details of the approaching meeting. He will base upon the reply the further arrangements to be made. Meanwhile he has appointed as a sub-committee Geo. E. Leighton, E. P. Bryan, superintendent of terminals for the Louisville and Nashville; Geo. W. Parker, president and general manager of the Cairo Short Line; H. L. Magee, general superintendent of the Wabsh, and H. M. Clarke, superintendent of the Mobile and Ohio. The committee, of which Mr. Ramsey is chairman, includes also Mr. Geo. E. Leighton and Mr. Frank Gaiennie, who represents the Business Men's League. Owing, partially to the absence of Mr. Magee from the city, the newly appointed committee has not yet met, but will shortly. Of INTEREST TO THE PUBLIC.

The session of the association will possess considerable interest to the general public, as have all that have preceded it. It will also be of peculiar importance to the railroad companies. Persons who travel take little account of the perlis they brave, nor stop to consider that their safety en route is only at the price of the eternal vigilance on the part of an army of men. Whence emanate the orders to the engineer, conductor, or switchman, who sends the train upon the proper course, disobedience or neglect of which would prove fatal, is not usually a matter of any particular incorters are being obeyed. Above these employes, with whom the public comes in contact, are members of what is known as the "operative force" of the road. These are the gentlemen whom the public comes in contact, are members of what is known as the "operative force" of the road. These are the gentlemen whom the publi appliances for safety reduces risk to a minimum.

Lest not all the precautions possible might present themselves even to these talented gentlemen, Presidents, General Managers, and General Superintendents of the various systems, individually, the operative forces of all the roads of importance in the country, have long been amalgamated in the American Rallway Association, the approaching session of which will be of unusual importance. The association in an advisory way controls the operation of each of the roads in its membership by general rules for employes, agreed to in convention, and is constantly discussing and suggesting improved methods of further insuring safety in travel, making also incidental suggestions for the protection of the individual roads in other directions.

TO ATTEND A FOREIGN CONGRESS.

One feature of the approaching session that will lend particular interest will be the selection of delegates to the International Railway Congress to be held in London, June 5. At the last session of the association, Oct. 17, 1894, in Hotel Brunswick, New York, a communication was received from President A. Dubols of the Permanent Commission of the International Railway Congress at Brussels, Belgium, inviting the association to become a member and send Congress at Brussels, Belgium, inviting the association to become a member and send delegates to the Congress. The association accepted, and unanimously chose President Haines, then absent from the session because of illness, as one of the delegates. There remain eight more to be selected. The coming Congress, being the first meeting of the Commission in an English speaking country, H. R. H., the Prince of Wales, has recognized the importance of the occasion by consenting to accept the presidency.

Another matter of importance will be the election of a standing committee of nine on general regulations for employes. These are to be selected from eighteen rames presented by the Nominating Committee, three for one year's service, three for two and three for three years. This committee is designed to make recommendations respecting rules for employes, including everyone actually conceted with the actual operating of the road. At present this duty is in the hands of an appointive committee.

There will also be important action on the matter of compensation for the use of freight cars. An attempt was made at the last session to reduce the mileage rate from three-quarters to one-half cent, or, at least, to a compensation based upon mileage and aper diem rate. These suggestions were referred back to the Committee on Car Service and this committee will now report upon the effect of a straight per diem rate. SAFETY APPLIANCES.

Reports are also due from the Committee on Interlocking and Block Signals, which have to do entirely with the means of protection, in the queration of the systems, both to employes and patrons. It is probable that the question of colors to be used on signals will be settled, this matter having been discussed at length, but without result, at the last session. The discussion then was the case with the reports of the other committees, that of the Committee on General Regulations for Employee was not disposed of at the last session, and will come up to a suppression the various committees will be cho

A service of praise precedes each lecture.

Rev. Dr. Chalfant, the new pastor of the Westminster Presbyterian Church, has arrived from Pittsburg and begun his new pastoral work in his new charge.

The St. Louis Primary Sunday-school Teachers' Union will hold its second annual institute at the Lafayette Park Presbyterian Church, Missouri avenue and Abloin place, this evening, from 10 a. m. to 4 p. m. Lunch will be served at the moon hour. A variety of subjects connected with primary work will be presented and discussed.

The two days' conference on the Holy Spirit, begun Thursday by the Baptist ministers at Lafayette Park Church, was resumed Friday. The programme followed was:

"Prayer and Labor in the Spirit," Rev. E. "Prayer and Labor in the Spirit," Rev. E. Slightly burry... 102111 Tub-washed.

BOARDERS AND BOARD.

T is an easy task to bring Board and Boarders together if the Post-Dispatch Wants are used. A 14-word Boarders' advertisement costs only 10 cents. There is no other way of getting such a vast circulation for such a trifling sum. The advertiser who reaches the most people gets the best results. This applies to Boarders Wanted as well as everything else. The Post-Dispatch has a larger circulation in St. Louis than the Globs-Democrat and Republic combined.

NEEDED READY CASH.

Heckel Hardware Co. Transferred Its Stock to Avoid Trouble.

The transfer of the stock of the Heckel Hardware Co., Twelfth and Locust streets, to Jesse T. Baker was due to the urgent demand of the St. Louis National Bank demand of the St. Louis National Bank for a settlement of a $30,000 debt. When one of the five directors refused to indorse the company's paper the bank declined to renew the loan, and threatened to attach. Other attachments would follow, if this were done, and President Geo. P. Heckel assured all creditors that the firm was solvent and was only suffering from a temporary want of ready money. The stock was then transferred to Mr. Baker as security for the money he advanced to pay the bank. He will conduct the business until the company is ready to pay him. He will then transfer back the stock to the original holders. The company's capital is $450,000.

LIBERTY OR DEATH.

Work-house Prisoners Risk Their Lives to Escape.

Louis Slater and Joseph Parte, Work-Louis Slater and Joseph Parte, Work-house prisohers, broke away from a chain-gang at Broadway and Merameo street, Thursday, and Guard Leopold Matt fired two shots at them. One load struck Slater in the right hand, but did not stop him. Supt. Lohrum, his son and Ben Wiethuchter, attracted by the reports, which were heard in the Work-house, took up the chase. They found the fugitives hiding in the car sheds of the Southern Electric Railway, Broadway and Osceola streets. They were put in the Work-house calaboose.

especially the unusual bright prospects of the present time, prompted the owners to make the deal.

Just what will be the name of this new subdivision has not yet been decided upon by the owners. From plans mapped out it promises to equal, if not surpass, any place of its kind located in this vicinity. The sidewalks will be constructed of granitoid; on the side the banks will be made to slope slightly and will be sodded; shade trees will be planted on either side of the street, giving the whole a genuine "suburban" appearance. The streets will be constructed of Teiford. There will be one main street which will measure 100 feet in width. Redmond Cleary, the chief stockholder in the Gibson Heights company, stated Thursday that it had been decided to spend about $50,000 on that property in improvements. O'Meara & Hill, contractors, have the job in hand and a large gang of men are at work at the place. The streets are to be regraded and shade trees planted, and when it is thrown open to the public again there will be a vast difference in appearance. Contracts are being made for the laying of water and gas pipes, the construction of granitoid sidewalks and telford streets. Improvements will be made on Park, Wichita and Arco avenues, between King's highway, from Manchester road to Gibson avenue, a distance of four blocks.

ASPHALT AND BRICK PAVENENTS.

Why the House Committee Failed to Re-

It is understood that the Committee on Public Improvements of the House of Delerates, to which the asphalt and brick pavng ordinances were again referred at the ast meeting of the House, was ready to report the bills favorably at a special meeting, which it was proposed to hold Tuesday evening, while the House sat, but that this was not done in deference to Chairman O'Blen, who was absent in Jefferson City.

O'Blen's carsissenses or indifference was to blame for the former adverse report the bills got.

O'Brien failed to read the section providing that the asphalt bills should be void unless property lowners affected should within twenty days deposit with the City Treasurer the estimated excess of cost over 25 per cent of assessed valuation. Their agreement to pay this excess was in the hands of the Board of Public Improvements when the adverse report was made.

In view of the fact that these asphalt ordinances were the first that carried specifications admitting substantial competiordinances were the list that carried specifications admitting substantial competition with the Barber Asphalt Co., the action of the committee made under erroneous pretenses was regarded at the City Hall with general suspicon. Two brick ordinances providing for the paving of Sarah street, between Laclede and West Belle place were providing for the paving of Saran street, between Laclede and West Eelle place were also adversely reported.

In this instance about $1,000 excess will fall on the city. Street Commissioner Murphy explained that Sarah street is such an important cross street that the Board of Public Improvements believed it would be good policy to pave it to relieve Vandeventer avenue. It now costs $1,000 a month to repair Vandeventer. Owing to the deep, narrow lots fronting on east and west streets and having a side entrance on Sarah, the effort to get property owners to pay the excess has proven a failure.

The action of the committee on the paving ordinances found the following explanation in many city offices:

The friends of brick and of the Barber Asphalt Co. combined to kill the ordinances admitting natural mixtures of sand, limestone and bitumen in competition with artificial. Then all the asphalt people got together against virified brick.

OPPOSITION GROWING.

Residents of Pine and Sarah Streets to Fight the New Road. The opposition of residents along Pine and Sarah streets to the building of the Pine street, Kirkwood and Northwestern Railway out Pine street, with a branch North on Sarah street, is growing. It is asserted that the building of such a road will depreciate the value of property along the streets traversed, which are given up almost entirely to residence purposes. The property owners and residents on Pine and Barah streets say the road is only intended to boom the suburban holdings of a few speculators and propose to make a vigorous fight against the passage of the ordinance permitting the building of the line.

A notice, calling a meeting at the Mercantile Club has been mailed to all property holders and residents on these streets. It announces the meeting for Friday afternoon, March 22, at 4 o'clock, and is signed by W. H. Thompson, Sam'l Cupples, W. Nichola, D. M. Houser, George A. Baker, Clinton Rowell, Jas. G.
